High school students tour campus

Students considering enrolling at the University next year will have a full day on Saturday, Feb. 13, to preview university programs, meet faculty members and students, and see the campus.

Both prospective students and their parents are invited to the day-long series of events planned for UO Preview. All high school and community college students are also welcome. Student registrations are $4 each, while parents may participate for free.

Pre-registration forms, which have been mailed to all Oregon high school graduating seniors, must be returned before Friday, Feb. 5, to the University Admissions Office. Community college students may obtain the forms from their school counselors.

Those who do not pre-register must register at the Erb Memorial Union, East 13th and University, at 8 a.m. Feb. 13. Those who have registered by mail should plan to arrive at the EMU by 8:30 a.m.

The morning schedule will include three 40-minute periods in which participants can learn about specific academic areas of their choice. Students and parents can choose from among 55 sessions to be presented at various campus locations by the faculty of the University's nine schools and colleges.

A session devoted to helping students plan their academic programs titled "Planning Your Education" can be substituted for one of the academic interest sessions.

In the afternoon, participants may attend three half-hour "special interest" meetings. Topics to be covered include admission requirements and procedures, housing options, financial aid opportunities, career planning and Honors College admission criteria.

Also planned for the afternoon is an Information Fair staffed by representatives of various support services and student organizations. The fair will be located in the EMU, Room 167.

Students who chose to have lunch on campus will eat with University students in residence halls.

Succeed in business.

"It's a lot easier with a Texas Instruments calculator designed to solve business problems."

Touch a few special keys on these Texas Instruments calculators, the TI Business Analyst-II and The MBA, and lengthy time-value-of-money problems suddenly aren't lengthy anymore. You can automatically calculate profit margins, forecast sales and earnings and perform statistics.

And problems with repetitive calculations are a piece of cake for the MBA, because it's programmable.

These calculators mean business, and what they give you is time—time to grasp underlying business concepts, while they handle the number crunching. To make it even easier, each calculator comes with a book written especially for it, which shows you how to make use of the calculator's full potential.

The Business Analyst-II and MBA business calculators from Texas Instruments. Two ways to run a successful business major, without running yourself ragged.

Clarification

Parts of a Dec. 11 Emerald article on the local economy have been misinterpreted.

In the article, Lane County Commissioner Jerry Rust is quoted as saying "everybody wants to place the blame on somebody else" for the area's economic crisis. Rust then places the blame on the business community and the Eugene Chamber of Commerce.

Lane County Commissioner Scott Lieuallen then is paraphrased as agreeing with Rust that many people look for a scapegoat and many charge local politicians with having a "no growth" attitude. Lieuallen was agreeing with Rust's charge that businesses and the Chamber of Commerce are to blame for the county's economic ills.
