The Black Stallion
directed by Carroll Ballard
In the midst of management course, law school applications, and pre-adulthood majors, The Black Stallion offers you the chance to be ten years old all over again. The story of a young boy, Alec, and his fiery steed, the Black, the movie has shipwrecks, desert isles, miraculous rescues, and a finish to beat National Velvet. Without ever stooping to Disney-sentimentality, The Black Stallion is a magical movie, a beautiful movie, a heartbreaking movie. You may never want to be twenty one again.

IN THE REALM OF THE SENSES
In The Realm of the Senses makes challenging viewing for the Western moviegoer. Set in 1926 Japan, the movie is the story of two obsessive lovers, whose passion is so complete that it elevates them above the militarism and oppression of their world and into "the realm of the senses." Theirs is a love without shame - as is director Nagisa Oshima's camera. But where Americans might see pornography, the Japanese have found revelation and the movie is not so much profane as it is sacred. It's a whole new kind of love and death.
