

Clinic tends hurts into the evening

At night the Student Health Center looks dark, deserted and inhospitable from the front. However, there is an Urgent Care Clinic on the west side of the building which stays open until 8 p.m. seven days a week.

The clinic's entrance (facing Carson Hall) is rigged to an electric bell that summons a nurse and physician as soon as the door is opened.

Judging from the poor turnout since the clinic was introduced fall term, many students in need are unaware of its existence, says University Physician Jim Jackson.

The clinic operates from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from noon to 8 p.m. Sunday. It is free to currently enrolled University students and is intended for minor emergencies that can't wait for a regular weekday appointment, such as lacerations, bad sprains, acute pains or infections, Jackson says.

Lab facilities and X-rays are available, and no appointment is necessary.

Bills, books wait at coop for students

Many students who consigned books to the campus American Advertising Federation's Jan. 4-8 co-op failed to reclaim their books or collect their money.

The co-op, located in the southwest corner of the EMU cafeteria, was established so that students could sell textbooks to fellow students at prices the sellers established.

The Federation says Tuesday is the last chance students will have to reclaim their books or money and students must come by EMU 101 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to complete their business.

In order to reclaim their books or money, students must have their receipts.

Get a new slant on math.

"The Texas Instruments new TI-40 and TI-55-II calculators have angled displays for easy-to-see-answers."

The slanted display makes these calculators easier to use at arm's length—and that's just the beginning. The economical TI-40, with built-in functions like trig, stat, logs, roots, reciprocals and more, will help you through math and science courses—especially since it comes with the informative book, Understanding Calculator Math.

The book explains how to use the TI-40 to work through, and understand, common problems.

If you're an advanced math or science major, you'll be more interested in the TI-55-II, which comes with the Calculator Decision-Making Sourcebook. The TI-55-II features 56-step programmability, multiple memories, scientific and statistical operations, conversion factors and much more—a total of 112 functions.

An extremely powerful calculator, at an excellent price. Both calculators have LCD displays, long battery life and fit right in your pocket.

TI-40 and TI-55-II calculators. Two new slants on math from Texas Instruments.

Look for them wherever calculators are sold.
