

Indoor meet lives up to billing

By Stevie Turcotte

Out of all the events at this year's edition of the Oregon Indoor Track and Field meet, there were three which stole the spotlight.

Those events were the men's mile and two-mile and the women's mile.

Those events had been built up in the press a bundle the week before. So it was expected that the crowd of some 7,000 came to see some action in those races.

And they weren't disappointed.

The women's mile was the first event to come up, featuring Oregon track all-American Leann Warren.

Warren immediately went to the front of the pack and ran the race she wanted to run. She was tailed by Michele Bush of UCLA for a while, but quickly left her with a burst of speed midway through the race.

Warren crossed the finish line in 4:37.9 while Bush finished second in 4:42.1.

"The time was O.K.," Warren. "It's about what I expected. I'm really just getting my training here."

"The crowd really helped me along in the second half of the race. This should help me for the Millrose Games on Feb. 12. But this race felt good."

The men's mile soon followed, with Tom Byers of Athletics West aiming for the first sub-four minute mile in Oregon Indoor history.

Byers took off early and ran a 60.6 first quarter. He went through the half in 2:00. He began to pull away from the pack on the third quarter.

The crowd, sensing the sub-four, rose to its feet on the last quarter mile of the race and spurred Byers on.

Byers hit the tape in 3:56.8, some five seconds under the meet record, and six seconds ahead of his nearest competitor.

"I thought it was about time that someone at the Oregon Indoor should go under four minutes," Byers said.

"The crowd here was great. It was typical of a Eugene crowd. I think the crowd saw me shift gears during the race and got me going."

Alberto Salazar, the pre-meet favorite in the men's two-mile, ended up second to Athletic's West Doug Padilla.

They went through the mile in 4:07. But with 2½ laps remaining, Padilla shot past Salazar with a surge and zipped to victory in 8:25.0. Salazar, who considered sitting out the race due to shin splints, finished in 8:25.3.

Gymnasts second but still score season high

Oregon stayed close through two events, but Oregon State's talent and depth finally showed as the second-ranked Beavers defeated Oregon and UC-Davis in a triangular meet at McArthur Court Friday night.

OSU won the meet with 140.70 points, and Oregon was second with a season-high total of 136.20. UC-Davis, the 1980 Division III champion, finished a distant third with 127.00.

"I'm pleased — I couldn't be more happy," said Oregon assistant coach Kurt Krichko. "The girls did exactly what we wanted. They just went out and performed their routines."

On the bars, again the Beavers claimed first place, as Eugene native Jayne Weinstein scored an impressive 9.5, and again the Ducks battled to second and third place finishes. Maureen Nolan was second with an 8.95 and Holly Holmes captured the third spot with an 8.85 mark.

After those two events, Oregon was just one-tenth of a point behind OSU, 68.95-68.85. However, the Beavers, competing without All-American Mary Ayotte-Law, swept the first three places in both the beam and the floor to put the meet away.

"We did the best we've done — we all came together," said Tennenhouse.
