Concrete strikes Bush limousine

WASHINGTON

Riot squads assembled, helicopters hovered, streets were blocked and offices searched. But in the end, authorities said it was just a chunk of concrete which nicked the armored limousine of Vice Pres. George Bush as he rode to the White House Tuesday morning.

Though the initial response centered on speculation that Bush may have been fired upon, the police, FBI and Secret Service jointly concluded late in the day that "there was no assault."

Special agent James Boyle of the Secret Service said FBI laboratory tests had demonstrated that the object which struck the car and startled the vice president and his bodyguards was "a substance consistent with the building materials being used in the area."

A Bush spokesman, Peter Teeley, said the tests revealed no metal fragments, but that "the object contained clay and cement."

Guerillas launch daylight attack

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador

Leftist guerrillas battling El Salvador's U.S.-backed junta launched a rare daylight attack on the eastern city of Usulután on Tuesday and claimed control of the northeastern town of Co-rinto.

A military source reached by telephone in Usulután, 70 miles east of San Salvador, said fighting was heavy in at least four sections of the city through the morning.

He said the guerrillas attacked about 6 a.m., killing at least one national policeman and wounding three soldiers. There was no word on guerrilla casualties.

At midday the army said it had restored order in Usulután but admitted there was still sporadic shooting.

Army spokesman Col. Marco Aurelio Gonzalez called the assaults "attacks of intimidation against the people" to keep them from voting in next month's constituent assembly elections.

Photographer linked with bloodstains

ATLANTA

Bloodstains found in the back seat of a car driven by Wayne Williams match the blood of two slain young blacks, witnesses testified Tuesday at Williams' murder trial.

Earlier, a Canadian fiber expert said that based on fibers and hairs found on the bodies of three slain young blacks, he was "nearly certain" Williams had some contact with them. They include the two men Williams is accused with killing.

The 23-year-old Williams, a black free-lance photographer and aspiring talent promoter, is charged with murdering Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of 28 young blacks whose deaths over 22 months have been investigated by a special police task force. Williams has denied knowing any of the 28.

Prosecutors, who are expected to wind up their case this week, are presenting evidence in 10 additional slayings in an effort to show a pattern that may fit the Cater and Payne deaths.

Three forensic serologists from the Georgia Crime Laboratory testified that the bloodstains in the car matched the blood types and blood enzyme groupings of slaying victims John Porter and William Barrett.
