

Going,
going,
gone

The Friends of the Museum of Art will hold their fifth annual Silent Auction, Print Sale and Food Fair Thursday. Among other items at the auction will be an oriental rug, a Thai temple rubbing, an antique high chair and a weekend vacation. Proceeds from ticket sales ($6.50 each) support the University Museum of Art's activities. The event will be held at the Holiday Inn on Coburg Rd. at 6:30 p.m.

KWAX-FM presents "Danzig: The Final Decade," an hour-long documentary about the background of the rare collection of Judaic treasures currently on display at the University Museum of Art. The broadcast can be heard on KWAX, 91.1 FM, tonight at 6:30.

Bill Evans

The Bill Evans Dance Company, one America's top dance ensembles, will present two different performances, two master classes and a free lecture-demonstration at the University Feb. 18-20. Tickets for the performances Feb. 19 and 20 are $5 for University students, $6 for the general public.

Charlotte London, Denny Guehler and Katha Feffer are featured in the University Theatre's production of "Getting Out," Feb. 12-13 and 17-20 in the Pocket Playhouse.

Eugene poet John Witte will give a free reading from his works in progress Thursday. Witte, a masters' graduate from the University, is the editor of the literary magazine Northwest Review. The presentation will start at 8 p.m. in Gallery 141 of Lawrence Hall.

The Portland group Johnny and the Distractions (no relation) will be in town for a Valentine's concert Feb. 14 at B.J. Kelly's. Tickets for the show are $4.96. The group just released their second album, "Let It Rock," on A & M Records.
