WPPSS plant
may be mothballed

SEATTLE

Yet another partly finished Washington Public Power Supply System nuclear power plant may have to be placed on hold temporarily because its power might not be needed by its scheduled completion date.

The plant in question is WPPSS No. 3 at the Satsop reservation west of Olympia. It's due to come on line in 1987. The plant is almost 43 percent complete and so far has cost $1.13 billion.

The supply system intends to finish the plant whether it's needed right away or not, arguing that because of inflation, it would cost less to complete now rather than later.

Doubts about the immediate need for the plant are directly tied to a new series of forecasts predicting that future energy demand in the Northwest will be less than expected because of the depressed economy, mushrooming utility rates and growing efforts to conserve electricity.

"Some forecasts suggest that (Project No.) 3 might not be needed on schedule as presently constructed," Peter Johnson, administrator of the Bonneville Power Administration, told a Senate subcommittee in Washington, D.C., earlier this week.

Mitterrand splits with Europeans

JERUSALEM

Pres. Francois Mitterrand of France, splitting with the standard European position on the Middle East, said Thursday the Palestine Liberation Organization must recognize Israel if it hopes to join peace negotiations.

In a speech to the Israeli Parliament, or Knesset, Mitterrand said the Palestinians should "determine their fate" but on the condition that they "respect the right of others, in their respect of international law, and in a dialogue that takes the place of violence."

In 1980, the European Common Market took a stand on the Middle East that rankles Israel because the Europeans called for Palestinian self-determination and for the PLO to be associated with Mideast-peace negotiations.

Mitterrand told the Knesset he disapproved of the European declaration in Venice because it "implicitly distanced" Europe from the Camp David peace accords.

Nicaraguan soldier captured, says Haig

WASHINGTON

Secretary of State Alexander Haig disclosed Thursday that a Nicaraguan soldier has been captured in El Salvador and charged that the guerrilla war is being directed from Nicaragua.

"Today, for the first time, a Nicaraguan military man was captured in Salvador, having been sent there by the FSLN to participate in the direction, which is so evident of this guerrilla operation, from Nicaragua," Haig said in testimony before the foreign operations subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee.

Haig did not elaborate. The FSLN is an acronym for the Sandinista Front for National Liberation, which controls the Nicaraguan government.

Haig's statement was the first time he had identified Nicaragua as the control point for Salvadoran guerrillas.
