Senate seeks deficit cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Republican leader says Pres. Reagan will have to yield on at least two of the three main proposals in Congress for reducing the nearly $100 billion deficit in his 1983 budget.

Reagan, despite the administration's projection of a $96.4 billion deficit next year, has vowed he will not accept a tax increase, reduced cost-of-living increases in Social Security or a cut in his defense budget.

But Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole, R-Kan., said in an interview broadcast Sunday that the president can hope to keep only one of those areas untouched in any compromise with lawmakers.

"He may have to give on one, compromise on one and retain one," Dole said in an interview taped earlier by Independent Television News and broadcast on its "From the Editor's Desk" program. "I think he's going to have to give on defense spending."

Dole made the prediction as he, Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., planned to meet with Democratic leaders this week in an effort to find a bipartisan proposal for submitting to Reagan.

"If we can reach some general agreement — not necessarily on every detail — and go to the president with it, I think you're going to find the president very accommodating," Dole said.

Reagan has said he is willing to allow Congress to cut federal social programs further, but lawmakers and many of the president's aides concede that is not likely to occur because of the deep reductions made there last year.

The White House on Saturday rejected a congressional proposal to clamp a two-year freeze on cost-of-living increases in Social Security benefits.

And Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, reaffirmed Sunday the administration's opposition to any tampering with the three-year, 25 percent cut in income taxes Reagan won from Congress in 1981.

"I don't think eliminating the third year tax cut is a good answer to the deficit question," he said on CBS' "Face the Nation" program. "It's important to maintain continuity, certainty, in our tax system introduced in last year's tax bill."

Mexican proposals interest Haig, U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mexican Foreign Secretary Jorge Castaneda said Sunday that he and Secretary of State Alexander Haig had arrived at "a logical basis for a series of agreements" to bring peace to Central America.

In a surprise announcement, Castaneda told reporters that he plans to discuss Haig's reactions to Mexican peace proposals with both Cuba and Nicaragua in the coming days.

"We feel hopeful that a process of negotiations may be starting in the Caribbean," Castaneda said.

Haig was less explicit than Castaneda in his assessment of his 75-minute meeting with the Mexican official. He acknowledged to reporters that his differences with Castaneda over the Mexican plan have "been narrowed" and said he was "pleased with the outcome of the dialogue."

Mexican Pres. Jose Lopez Portillo launched the peace initiative late last month in a speech in Nicaragua. The plan involves a broad-based effort to ease U.S. differences with both Cuba and Nicaragua.
