What's wrong with this office?

Take a look around. There's no telephone. You won't find any secretaries, or typewriters. This is the Peace Corps office, and what you will find are hard working volunteers dedicated to helping people all over the world.

You could join us. You'd give a lot, but you'd get a lot too. Like what? Experience. Experience that could put you ahead of the rest in the future.

Visit us in Room 246 Susan Campbell Hall, or call 686-3235 and learn how you could join us... in the Peace Corps. Besides, where else could you get an office that big?

Duck linksters finish 11th

FRESNO, Calif. — The University of Oregon golf team shot Saturday's sixth best round, a 375, but still could only finish 11th in the 18-team Fresno St.-Pepsi Golf Classic in Fresno.

Tournament champion USC, paced by individual winner Jeff Hart, led all three days and finished three strokes up on second place UCLA, 1090 to 1093. Oregon sophomore Eric Johnson was 11 strokes behind Hart and led the Ducks with a 221. Oregon finished with a total score of 1131.

The Ducks were deadlocked in a tie for tenth place after Thursday and Friday's back-to-back rounds of 378, which were described by UO Coach Jim Ferguson as "rotten."

Although Ferguson said the Ducks "still weren't real sharp" and "didn't play as we can play," Oregon improved their team total by 16 strokes over last year's Classic in which they also finished in the 11th spot on the same Sunnyside Country Club course.

Oregon will now travel to Santa Cruz, Calif., for the Western Intercollegiate tournament April 6-8.

Timbers, Drillers slish to tie

By Paul Danzer
Of the Emerald

The weather was less than ideal and the field was less than adequate, but Portland Timber coach Vic Crowe did not count Sunday's exhibition game as a total washout after the Timbers and Edmonton Drillers slished to a 2-2 draw at Autzen Stadium.

Crowe entered his team's final non-counter hoping to find a flow in his squad's play, but most of the flowing was done by the puddles on Autzen's artificial surface.

"Unfortunately, because of the conditions, it was hard to get the kind of flow we would have liked," Crowe said. "Even to try to play the way you want to is tough on a small pitch in these conditions."

Crowe noted that you always get something from playing these games, or teams wouldn't bother playing them. He added that it offered his team another chance to play together, sharpen skills, and improve their condition before the regular season kicks off next Friday at Seattle.

Throughout the first half of the match it looked as if Portland might not do anything to the liking of the sparse turnout of faithful fans who braved the inclement conditions to witness the match. The Timbers couldn't seem to find their sea legs and as a result found themselves on the short end of a 1-0 halftime score.

The only tally of the first half came when

Driller midfielder Kai Haaskivi drove a dripping 25-yarder through the hands of Portland goalkeeper Dragan Radovich just 3:50 into the match.

Crowe made some personnel changes at the break, putting Bill Irwin in goal, sending on veterans Stuart Lee and Willie Anderson in place of Ron Futcher and Brian Gant, and inserting Bruce Gant at right fullback for Glenn Myernick. The dividends came quickly.

Lee got in the way of an attempted Driller clearing pass and fed John Pratt who broke free on the left side of the penalty area. Pratt got Edmonton keeper P.J. Johns to commit himself then crossed the ball to John Bain who tapped it in to tie the score 11 minutes into the second half.

Portland took the lead at 68:40 when Edmonton defender Dwight Lodeweges toed a Lee cross into his own net with the Timber's Dale Mitchell waiting on the doorstep. Lee took a pass from Young Jeung Cho and broke free down the left wing to set up the cross.

Edmonton, who beat the Sounders 2-0 in Seattle Friday, erased Portland's hope for a second straight preseason win when Mike McLenaghan headed a Larry Dill corner kick past a diving Irwin with 5:54 to play in the match.

Crowe got his first look at South African forward Ace Mnini, who arrived in Portland for a tryout Friday, and was pleased with some of what he saw.

Wilkes leads Lakers over Trail Blazers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forward Jamaal Wilkes scored 32 points Sunday, leading the Los Angeles Lakers to a 129-111 National Basketball Association victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Wilkes had 22 of his points in the first half as Los Angeles, 51-24, took a 63-55 halftime advantage in the nationally televised game.

The Lakers stayed on top the rest of the way although the Trail Blazers got as close as three points, 80-77, midway through the third period. Los Angeles outscored Portland 13-3 over the next four minutes to take a 93-80 advantage and wasn't threatened seriously after that.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Norm Nixon added 24 and 22 points, respectively, for the Lakers. Nixon also had 13 assists. Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 20 points, seven rebounds, 10 assists and seven steals for Los Angeles.

Kelvin Ransey led Portland with 23 points and 10 assists. Jim Paxson added 20 points and Billy Ray Bates scored 18 for the Blazers.
