

Men best cold, Huskies . . .

The Oregon men's track team outscored Washington 32-13 in the middle and long distances, including a sweep in the 5,000 meters, on the way to an easy 98-64 dual meet win in Seattle Saturday.

The weather proved more difficult than the Huskies for many of the Ducks, who had to fight near-freezing temperatures, a steady rain often spiked with hail and a stiff wind from Lake Washington.

Oregon won just three more events than Washington, but the Ducks' superior depth enabled them to pick up their second consecutive dual meet win of the year.

Oregon swept four events — the high jump, hammer throw, intermediate hurdles and 5,000-meters — and finished one-two in three others — the high hurdles, 200- and 400-meters. In those seven events, Oregon outscored Washington 60-3.

The Huskies did get a big win in the javelin from Mike Mahovich, third in last year's conference championships, as he uncorked a throw of 258-0 to dispose of Oregon's Brian Crouser.

Crouser did get a lifetime best, throwing 243-7. Washington also got a win in the 100-meters from Sterling Hinds, the Canadian junior champion. He beat Oregon's George Walcott in the 100 and anchored the Huskies 400-meter relay team to victory, in the process handing the Ducks their first 400 relay loss in a dual meet since 1980.

Dean Crouser was the only double winner for Oregon, notching wins in the shot put (63-3/4) and discus (190-10). Other Oregon winners included Kent Landerholm in the hammer (194-8); Dwight Robertson in the high hurdles (14.31 wind-aided); Brad Coleman in the 400 (48.25); Jim Hill in the 1,500 (3:44.3); John Brauer in the steeplechase (9:05.0); Phil Christian in the high jump (6-8 3/4); Bart MacGillivray in the 200 (21.98 windaided); and Greg Erwin in the 5,000 (14:24.26).

Oregon also got a win from Don Ward in the intermediate hurdles (54.28). Ward was unable to compete in either of the Ducks first two dual meet because of an injured leg, but he didn't seem to have lost too much while injured, holding teammate Don Wright off in the final stretch in Seattle.

. . . as do the Duck women

Oregon's women track team swamped the University of Washington, 79-47, in terrible weather Saturday in Seattle, turning in some good marks despite the awful conditions.

"We ran well despite the weather, but the conditions were so atrocious that it was hard to do anything," said Oregon coach Tom Heinonen. "We still turned in some good marks, though. We ran well, but the field events were so wet that it was hard to come up with good marks."

The weather was so bad that the high jump had to be moved into Hec Edmundson Pavillion where Jean Borchardt set the Oregon record of 5-9 3/4 to gain second place.

"Jean is a good example — she wins the long jump almost a foot under her season best, and then a half an hour later she sets the school record in the high jump indoors," Heinonen said. "She was competing very well, but the weather held all the marks down."

"I think it is astonishing that there any good marks at all. It really was terrible out, everyone was soaked to the skin. There wasn't a lot of competition with Washington. A number of people didn't have to rise to the occasion to win. It's difficult to get excited about performing when the weather is like that."

The Ducks did turn up some good marks in a number of events like Robin Pate's lifetime best in the 100-meters, winning with a 14.41 mark. Lisa Nicholson finished second to Pate, equaling her previous best of 14.79. Claudette Groenendaal won the 800-meters, also equaling her best of 2:12.16.

Grace Bakari was the top point scorer of the meet winning the 100-meters in 12.37, the 200-meters in 24.67, and anchoring the 400-meter relay team as it easily outdistanced the Huskies.

Oregon kept home a number of runners to rest them for next week's meet with the University of Arizona, which helped the Huskies come so close in team score.

Oregon bats revive, whip WOSC, 5-2

Just when they needed it most, the Oregon women's softball team came up with a textbook inning of offensive softball Friday to defeat Western Oregon State College, 5-2, in a single makeup game at home.

Clinging to a 3-2 lead entering the bottom of the fifth, the Ducks used three hits and some heady base running to build their lead to three.

The Ducks pounded out 15 hits and rode the shut-out pitching effort of Marcy Sowa as they blasted Lewis & Clark, 13-0, in Portland on Sunday.

Karen Vipond led the Oregon hitting barrage with three hits and three RBI's. Katie Hickey went 2-2, including a three-run triple.

CASH

For Textbooks
Mon.-Fri.

Smith Family
Bookstore

768 E. 13th
1 Bl. From Campus
Ph 345-1651

This Could Be You!

Solo in 30 Days for Only $529

Inside each of us is a spirit that wants to escape from the ordinary . . . to do something special. For many, flying fulfills this need and opens the door to an adventure that only few share and none forget.

Now, for a limited time only, we can help you become a part of this adventure at a very special price. For just $529 and a little of your spare time, our instructors can take you from ground instruction through solo in less than a month.

Call us today to schedule your $10 introductory Flite Lesson.

EUGENE FLITE CENTER
90454 Boeing Dr. 688-9291

"LENIN IN POWER: THE SOCIAL HISTORY OF THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION"

A free public lecture by

Peter Scheibert

(Director of the OST-EUROPA Institute, University of Marburg, Germany)

MONDAY,
APRIL 19

7:30 PM • EMU Room 108-110

Sponsored by the UO Russian & East European Studies Center

EARTHWEEK 1982

A Precious Place

A Celebration of the Earth

APRIL 19-25
FEATURING

MOUNTAIN VISIONS beautiful 11 projector slide show plus talks by notable people including Dave Foreman
KARL GROSSMAN author of "Cover Up: What You are not Supposed to Know About Nuclear Power"
JEAN CLAUDE FABY head of the United Nations Environment Program
VICTOR PAPANEK architect and planner of designs for a fragile world
WESLEY MARX multi-talented Environmentalist; author of "The Frail Ocean"

Sponsored by the UO Survival Center

For more info call 686-4356

Human Rights &
the Arts in the Soviet Union
A series of free public presentations by the acclaimed Russian artist

Ernst Neizvestny

April 20-23, 1982,

at the University of Oregon

Tuesday, April 20 Slide-lecture "Dostoevsky and Dante: Illustrations of Their Works" 7:00 p.m., 177 Lawrence Hall

Wednesday, April 21 Symposium: Human Rights and the Arts in the Soviet Union 7:00 p.m., 150 Geology Building

- Slide-lecture "Art and Freedom: A Personal Account of Life and Work in the USSR and the Free World"
- Documentary film "Ernst Neizvestny" (USSR)
- Panel discussion "Human Rights and the Arts in the Soviet Union"

Paul Buckner (Fine Arts) University of Oregon
Lena Lencek (Russian Department) Reed College
Albert Leong (Russian Program) University of Oregon
Sherwin Simmons (Art History) University of Oregon
Fruim Yurevich (Russian Program) University of Oregon

Thursday, April 22 Film: Based on Solzhenitsyn's book "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" with commentary and discussion by Mr. Neizvestny 7:00 p.m., 171 Lawrence Hall

Friday, April 23 Slide-lecture "On Synthesis in Art" 4:30 p.m., 177 Lawrence Hall

During the week, there will be an exhibition of Neizvestny's graphic art in the Lawrence Hall Gallery at the University of Oregon.

Neizvestny's works include the headstone for the grave of former Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev, a statue atop the Aswan Dam in Egypt, a crucifix in the Vatican Museum, a bronze head of Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich for the Kennedy Center, a monumental "Tree of Life" project, and graphic representations of the Tribes of Israel. He is the subject of John Berger's Art and Revolution: Ernst Neizvestny and the Role of the Artist in the USSR. Neizvestny emigrated from the USSR in 1976 and currently lives in New York City.

These events are coordinated by the University of Oregon Russian and East European Studies Center

Co-sponsors: The Oregon Committee for the Humanities, the University of Oregon School of Architecture and Allied Arts, Visiting Scholars Program, Russian Program, International Studies Program, Honors College, the Hillel Foundation, and Cinema 7.