

Oregon softball team splits twinbill

The Oregon softball team showed the first signs of life in more than three games Monday, posting a 2-0 softball win over Portland State to salvage a split of a home double-header.

The Ducks were coming off being swept by the Vikings in Portland on Friday.

After giving up seven runs and committing six errors while being shut out for the third straight time in Monday's first game, the women got things in order during a team meeting between games, then got down to playing a much-improved game in the nightcap.

The Vikings had kept the pressure on the Oregon defense, forcing countless mistakes while knocking them into a coma with an 18-run barrage in three games. The Ducks finally found the secret in the second game Monday — hitting the ball on the ground and making their opponents play defense.

In the second inning, after going 22 straight frames without a run against the Viks, the Ducks began to put things together.

Back-to-back throwing errors by PSU shortstop Patti Perkins, on grounders by Katie Hickey and Deanna Eckelman, put Ducks on first and third with no outs. Designated hitter Karen Vipond followed with a single up the middle to score Hickey and the drought was over.

The Ducks scored again in the fourth inning. Another Perkins error put Eckelman on base. After Krista Parent struck out, freshman Molly Barnes drove a single up the middle to score Eckelman.

"I was afraid we were in a rut and that we might not get out of it," said Oregon mentor Charles Sylvester. "That's why I treated it (Game 2) like the seventh game of the World Series."

The offense allowed the Ducks to climb out of the rut, but it was the pitching of freshman Janet Wright that made the win stand up. Wright held the Viks to just two hits, one off the bat of Mary Ross, who blasted five triples in the four games.

Two of the three-baggers came in Monday's first game as Ross came up with three of the Viks' five hits off the Ducks Stephanie Heisler, and PSU ran up the score.

The Ducks take a 6-7-1 record into Tuesday's double-header at Oregon State.

The Oregon crew won its first all-around trophy ever at the Portland Regatta over the weekend. The Ducks won six of eight events in Portland, defeating Lewis and Clark College, Reed College, the Portland Rowing Club, the Willamette Rowing Club and the Portland Junior Crew.

The crew took first and second in the mixed 8 race and finished first in the men's varsity 8, men's heavy varsity 4, men's light varsity 4, women's varsity 8 and women's light varsity 4.

CORVALLIS — The Oregon golf team shot a second round 363 Monday afternoon to overtake Arizona State and slip into third place at the Pac 10 Conference Golf Championships in Corvallis. UCLA, paced by tournament leader Corey Pavin at 134, is 24 strokes up on second place USC, 701 to 725.

Oregon, showing some much needed consistency, holds onto third by one stroke over the Sun Devils, 729 to 730, at the midway point of the tournament. The Ducks are led by Shell Joyner and Eric Johnson, both tied for sixth at 142.

The tournament continues today with the third round and will conclude Wednesday.

EUGENE (AP) — A University of Oregon tight end signed a contract Monday with the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League.

Greg Hogenson said he signed as a free agent after receiving inquiries from the Chiefs and the Oakland Raiders.

The 6-foot-5, 237-pound Hogenson, who is from Salem, made 15 catches for 159 yards and one touchdown last season.
