British invasion appears imminent

FALKLAND ISLANDS

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Monday that Britain will give U.N. talks one more chance to settle the Falkland Islands conflict, but she reportedly warned Argentina it has 48 hours to make peace.

"We have gone as far as we can," she told independent Radio News, clearly exasperated at what she called Argentine intransigence. "They are the invader. They are the aggressor. We are the aggrieved. It is up to them."

Asked how long she would wait before abandoning efforts by U.N. Secretary General Perez de Cuellar, Thatcher said: "My guess is that we shall know this week whether we are going to get a peaceful settlement or not."

Earlier, Britain's domestic news agency Press Association quoted military sources as saying Thatcher told U.N. Ambassador Anthony Parsons to warn Argentine negotiators they must settle in 48 hours. Otherwise she would order troops aboard the Royal Navy war fleet to storm the South Atlantic islands.

In Buenos Aires, the military junta denounced Britain's policy of bombing Argentine targets in the South Atlantic — including what it called unarmed cargo ships — while at the same time claiming to seek peace.

No new fighting was reported Monday, but war correspondents aboard the British fleet of 82-plus ships said forces went on a two-hour alert when the carrier Hermes spotted six Argentine jets on radar. The jets disappeared without incident, they said.

The lull followed Britain's Sunday raids when warplanes bombed the airfield at Stanley, the Falklands capital, and strafed two Argentine supply ships in the British-declared war zone. One vessel was later abandoned.

Mutineers detained at Houston docks

HOUSTON

Five Panamanian freighter crewmen suspected of killing their first officer and plotting to kill seven other crew members were detained aboard the vessel after it docked today in Houston, officials said.

Immigration and Naturalization Service supervisor Ray Larson said the only U.S. action in the matter would be to make sure the five crewmen were not permitted off the ship while it is in U.S. waters.

The freighter Evergreen arrived from New Orleans at the Houston city docks after the Coast Guard and FBI on Saturday night responded to a report of a mutiny aboard.

FBI spokesman Russ Anderson said a federal special weapons and tactics team and a group of Coast Guardsmen boarded the Evergreen on Saturday as it was anchored at the mouth of the Mississippi River. The FBI agents, he said, found that the alleged mutineers were already under ship arrest by the captain. The five men were handcuffed and locked in a cabin, he said.

The FBI spokesman said the ship's first officer, Dajit Suberoi, 42, of Jullundur, India, was killed Saturday morning in international waters, 110 miles south-southeast of Port Eads, La., and his body apparently tossed overboard.

Rep claims Nazis smuggled in to U.S.

WASHINGTON

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., has called for a congressional investigation into reports that State Department officials secretly smuggled hundreds of Nazi war criminals into the United States in exchange for Soviet intelligence information.

Frank, a member of the House subcommittee on investigations, called the reported Nazi recruitment operation "the most appalling mixture of moral insensitivity and incompetence I have seen."

Frank said Sunday that he was informed of the purported clandestine program by John Loftus, a former prosecutor with the Justice Department's Office of Special Investigation, the unit responsible for ferreting out war criminals.

Loftus, appearing on the CBS-TV program "60 Minutes" Sunday, charged the smuggling program was run by the State Department's Office of Policy Coordination.

More than 300 Nazi war criminals still live in the United States and some of them work for the government, Loftus said.

The FBI, the Army and the State Department were all involved in enlisting Nazi help to spy on the Soviets in exchange for American citizenship and jobs, Loftus said.

"They knew that the entire Nazi government of Byelorussia, the president, the vice presidents, cabinet ministers, governors and mayors, police chiefs were all living in America," Loftus said.

Catch their eye first.

First impressions are very important. Your resume says who you are before the interviewers even see you.

If your resume can catch their eye and hold their attention just a little longer than the others, if it stands out on a crowded desk, then you've got your foot in the door so you can speak for yourself.

A resume professionally produced by the Oregon Daily Emerald Jobwork Department gives you the visual edge you'll need to make a favorable first impression and to stand up to the competition.
