I LOVE YOU,
ALICE B. TOKLAS

Straight-laced lawyer Sellers decides that his world is just too meaningless, so he "drops out" into the hip subculture with hilarious results! The love beads and the psychedelic music help, but it takes some of Alice B. Toklas' famous "special brownies" recipe to finally expand Sellers' mind.

ONCE UPON A TIME IN THE WEST

This monumental epic ranks among the five or six all-time Western masterpieces. Henry Fonda plays the ruthless, murderous psychopath who suffers no pangs of conscience after annihilating Jason Robards, the half-breed falsely accused of a terrible slaughter. Charles Bronson plays The Man, who remembers how his brothers were savagely tortured. Brilliantly directed by Sergio Leone, this glorious picture re-established the Western's significance to the filmmaker's art.

BOGIE IN

THE ENFORCER

One of the toughest and most realistic gangster films of the American cinema, THE ENFORCER is about Murder Incorporated, gangland's contract murderers, who prevent witnesses from testifying about crimes. One of Humphrey Bogart's best and least appreciated performances.

BOGART
and HEPBURN
in
THE
QUEEN

Unquestionably one of the most entertaining films ever made, THE AFRICAN QUEEN has adventure, romance, laughs, and superb acting by Humphrey Bogart and Katherine Hepburn. Bogie won his only Oscar for his role as the hard-drinking river-rat in Africa. Hepburn is equally great as a "prim and proper" woman stuck alone with booze on a dangerous journey. A truly great film!
