

Three get service awards

The founder of the Oregon Coast Trail, a leader in the mental health field in Oregon and an architect who has helped shape the contemporary face of Washington, D.C., will receive distinguished service awards from the University June 13.

Samuel Dicken, professor emeritus of geography from Eugene; George Saslow, professor emeritus of psychiatry at the Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland; and Chloethiel Smith, University alumnus and an architect in Washington, D.C., will receive the awards during the University's 105th commencement June 13 at 2:30 p.m. at Hayward Field.

The awards, established in 1956, are presented each year to "individuals who, by their knowledge and skill, have made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole."

Dicken will be honored for his many efforts on behalf of the Oregon Coast Trail, which began with his dream of a continuous 370-mile hiking trail from the Columbia River to the California border.

Saslow, recognized as a strong influence in the development of mental health treatment efforts in Oregon over many years, was responsible for founding the psychiatry department at what was then the University Medical School, now part of the Oregon Health Sciences University. He served as chairman of the department from 1957 until 1973.

Described as an influential, charismatic teacher, Saslow has been responsible for innovative modes of treatment, including the open ward concept. He is known nationally and internationally in the field of medical education and mental health.

Smith's architectural achievements are noticeable in Washington, D.C.'s, newer buildings. Smith graduated with honors from the University with a bachelor of architecture degree in 1932, and started her architectural firm in the nation's capital in 1946.

Her firm's principal works in Washington since 1975 include a master plan for the Washington Cathedral courtyard, a master plan and design for the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, the new YMCA building and expansion of the student union building at Galaudet College.

ROTC vote delayed until July

The decision whether to offer lower division ROTC courses at Lane Community College has been postponed from the LCC Board of Education's monthly meeting Wednesday to the July 14 meeting, according to Lt. Col. Steve Wolfgram, University military science professor.

The controversial proposal, suggested by Wolfgram, already has generated a great deal of discussion at the community college. Some LCC faculty argue that the college cannot reject courses because they do not agree with the subject matter, while others say they want no affiliation with the Army and the defense department.

The student government at LCC has voted not to have any involvement with ROTC.

The proposal is to offer the first two years of ROTC courses at both LCC and the University, with community college students coming to the University to finish the upper division courses.

By sending ROTC faculty to LCC, the students there can take advantage of the courses without having to come to the University, Wolfgram says.

The additional courses will be taught using the current ROTC faculty, though two new faculty members are being added next year to allow Wolfgram "greater flexibility to do more things," he says.

GTFs receive teaching honors

Two University graduate students have been chosen to receive the Graduate Teaching Fellow awards for 1982.

Chosen from a field of 71 nominees representing 28 departments were Debra Scott, a master's degree student in Romance Languages from Eugene, and Stephen Yarian, a doctoral degree student in speech from Ortonville, Mich. Each will receive $500 awards during the University commencement ceremonies June 13.

Awarded honorable mention and cash prizes of $150 each were Diane Baxter, a doctoral degree student in music, and Julia Heydon, a master's degree student in music.

The GTF awards, initiated in 1979, are presented in recognition of excellence in teaching and academic guidance. The awards were established in response to a proposal by the University chapter of Mortar Board, a national honor society of students who have distinguished themselves in leadership, scholarship, and service.

All GTFs involved in classroom or laboratory teaching are eligible for nomination by students and faculty members. A committee composed of a GTF, three faculty members, the associate dean of the Graduate School and two Mortar Board members makes the selection, considering such qualities as high academic standards, innovation and clarity in teaching and student evaluations.

summer fun

UNITY SCHOOL

580 North Garden Way, Eugene 97401
484-0107
*No Religious Affiliation*

Summer program happens June thru August...open to all children ages 3-12. Open Monday thru Friday, 7:30 am - 6:00 pm. We serve breakfast, lunch and snack of vegetarian meals.

Our program includes:

- Fine, practical and performing arts; watercolors, modeling, weaving, woodworking and other crafts.
- Children's theatre, music, nature studies, science and Native/Foreign Culture.
- Physical education and field trips, harvesting and coastal visits.

French Braiding

.....styled individually
(plus a facial if you like)
all for only

$5.00

ALSO.....

Excessive Hair Removed
using a natural technique

FACE - $3.50
ARMS - $8.00
LEGS - $12.50

for Appt. Call 484-5068

All proceeds of this fund-raiser will go to the I. S. E. Distress Fund.

emu Food Service

Friday

June 11

... last beer garden of the term ...

come celebrate the end of finals

Free Entertainment

4 - 7 p.m.

EMU Dining Room

Non-alcoholic beverages served

Book Buyback is Back Again

With the Best Deal in Town.

June 7-12

When you sell your books back to the University Bookstore, realize you are getting the best deal in town. Remember our policy: We buy books that the faculty has ordered for next term at 50% of our current selling price. That's the best deal in town.

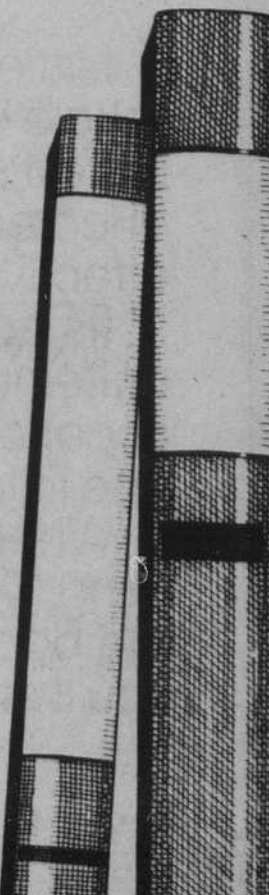

Other textbooks, not needed on this campus, will be bought from you at a price determined by used book wholesalers. Whatever the books are worth the Bookstore will pay cash for them. Recycle your books and help keep future book costs as low as possible. Sell your books back to the University Bookstore, June 7 - 12.

The University Bookstore: Believing in Higher Education not high prices.

UO
BOOKSTORE

13th & Kincaid
Mon-Fri 7:30-5:30
Sat 10:00-3:00

Textbooks 686-3520 • General Books 686-3510 • Supplies 686-4331