Food fare at fairly easy prices

By HANK TROTTER

What is more unlikely than two students eating their fill? How about two students eating their fill for $5?

In these times of a depressed economy and rising tuition $5 will buy less and less, if you can scrape it together at all. And unless you are familiar with Eugene's eating scene you may be stuck dishing out $10 for a meal Fido would turn tail on.

Cheap and hearty meals are out there to be eaten. The chore is to find them.

The Peking Mandarin restaurant at 13th Ave. and Hilyard St. in Eugene offers a $1.95 lunch special. Each weekday provides a different look at authentic Chinese cuisine. Monday's lunch menu, for instance, is fried wonton served with pork chow mein. Other days an egg roll or sweet and sour pork may be served with pork fried rice or chow mein.

Included in the meal is coffee or tea and a fortune cookie.

For a little American fare Jeb's, 1350 Alder St., is the place to be. Each Wednesday Jeb's offers a free small order of their "famous" fries with any $2 hamburger. The rest of the week the fries cost 50 cents. Jeb's fries were hailed by the now defunct Willamette Valley Observer as "Eugene's best fries."

From 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. every weekday morning early risers can eat a delicious, affordable breakfast at Aunt Lucy Devine's. A buck and a half will bring two eggs and toast or french toast served with potatoes and coffee. Aunt Lucy's is located at 1340 Alder next to the 7-11 store.

The Eugene Council for Human Rights will serve lunch daily from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Wesley Foundation building at 1236 Kincaid St. beginning early in October. The meals will be prepared by an El Salvadorian cook and will reflect various Latin American cultures. The lunch will be a complete meal served in the spirit of having a good time while helping the people of El Salvador. Proceeds from the lunch on Wednesday will be sent directly to the refugee camps in Honduras for those fleeing the civil war in El Salvador. The proceeds from the other lunches will be used by the Eugene Council to support itself. The food will be donated to the Council and those who eat may help in the preparing or cleaning up. Costs have not yet been set but will be approximately $1.50.

The Newman Center, 1850

Emerald St. will once again hold their "Sunday Soup Supper." Homemade soup and bread will be served for $1. A time schedule has not yet been set for the meal and those interested are encouraged to call ext. 4468 for further information. The supper is open to all and one need not be a member of the Newman Center to attend.

Two fish and chips fans can eat their fill for the price of one Wednesday from 5 to 10 p.m. at the Trawler, 110 S. Park St. The price is $4.95 and includes an entree, french fries, vegetable, homemade bread and salad or chowder.

Pizan's, 1225 Alder St. offers what they think is a tasty meat-loaf sandwich made of entirely fresh and homemade ingredients. The sandwich runs for $1.50 as does a large bowl of homemade soup or chili. For those with a little bit more cash Pizan's also offers a $2.95 daily special. Typically, lasagne with garlic bread and salad will be featured "just like Mom used to fix it."

The Kona Cafe's Wednesday "Beggars Banquet" also costs a bit more but may be worth it for people who enjoy "all you can eat" offers. You can get, for $3.50, all the tacos and refried beans and rice you can stand.

Night people may enjoy a midnight omelette snack at Lenny's Nosh Bar in the Courtyard, 699 E. 13th Ave. A four egg omelette with a choice of fillings is only $2.25. Lenny serves the special from 10:30 p.m. until 3 in the morning.

The Williams Food Company, at 1249 Alder St., offers a large salad bar for $2.25 a person.
