Groups plan benefit concert

A benefit concert for three activist organizations will be held tonight at the First Christian Church in Eugene.

Music for the concert will be provided by pianist/poet Steven Labensart and his wife Sylvia. Proceeds from the concert will go to Greenpeace, Amnesty International and the Oregon Nuclear Weapons Freeze Campaign.

"Music is a vehicle for peace building," says concert promoter Marty Immerman. "Steven's music is a carrier wave, carrying feelings and ideas right for the times."

Labensart says his music style is influenced by his training as a jazz and classical pianist as well as his travels in Asia and Africa.

The concert will celebrate the humanistic ideals of the three organizations, Immerman says. "There is a deep thought for human life underlying these groups, and they share a concern for the earth and all its inhabitants. They're trying to diminish the technology of violence in favor of an attitude of mutual trust and caring."

Amnesty International monitors human rights violations in countries around the world. Greenpeace funds expeditions and legislative efforts to stop the commercial killing of seals, dolphins and whales.

Tickets for the concert are $3 and are available at Down To Earth Home and Garden Stores, Honey Heaven, Genesis Juice Bar, Kinko's and the EMU Main Desk.
