

Brewers pound St. Louis in series opener

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Paul Molitor rapped a record five hits and Mike Caldwell pitched a three-hitter as the powerful Milwaukee Brewers used singles to build a 17-hit attack and beat the St. Louis Cardinals 10-0 in the first game of the World Series Tuesday night.

The Brewers rapped playoff hero Bob Forsch for all their runs and 10 hits, to find themselves in an extremely unfamiliar position — in the lead for once. They finished with 13 singles.

The Cardinals went down meekly, as Caldwell, a junkball left-hander, got 10 of his first 15 outs on ground balls. He gave up a second-inning double to St. Louis catcher Darrell Porter and eighth-inning singles to Porter and Ken Oberkfell.

Caldwell's control, a problem in his last two outings, was impeccable. He did not walk a batter until two were out in the sixth inning.

Not since the 1946 World Series between St. Louis and Boston had any player knocked as many as four hits in a game and that was done by four players. Robin Yount also had four hits on this night for the Brewers.

Milwaukee scored twice in the first inning off Forsch, betrayed by the normally excellent glove of first baseman Keith Hernandez, whose error on a ground ball by Ben Oglivie made both runs unearned.

The Brewers made it 3-0 in the fourth with Molitor driving in the run on a broken-bat single. A Ted Simmons' homer in the fifth boosted the lead to 4-0. Milwaukee finally ended Forsch's evening with two more runs in the sixth.

Caldwell, though, was nearly flawless.

The double he gave up to Porter in the second inning probably would have been a single if the Brewers had been playing at home. But on the artificial surface of Busch Stadium, Porter's soft liner took a huge bounce over right fielder's Charlie Moore's head and by the time center fielder Gorman Thomas tracked it down, Porter was on second. The hit became meaningless, however, when rookie David Green lined out softly to Cecil Cooper at first base to the dismay of the standing-room-only crowd of 53,723.

Unwilling to face the predicament they had in the last week of the season and again in the playoffs, the Brewers moved quickly to take the lead.

With one out in the first inning, Yount singled and Forsch walked Cooper on four pitches. Simmons then struck out, looking at a Forsch fastball on the outside of the plate, bringing up Oglivie, who hit a liner right at Hernandez's feet. The ball skipped by the first baseman untouched for an error as Yount scored and Cooper raced to third base.

Gorman Thomas followed with an infield hit deep to the right of shortstop Ozzie Smith, who gloved the ball in outfield territory but was unable to hold onto it as Cooper scored.

Forsch hit the next batter, designated hitter Roy Howell, with a pitch but escaped further damage when Moore popped to Hernandez in foul territory.

Student tickets remain for ND

Students looking for tickets to the Oregon-Notre Dame football game Oct. 23, can still find them. But the total number of student tickets available for the game could decrease, according to Hunt Holsapple, athletic department ticket manager.

A maximum of 2,000 single game student tickets will go on sale Monday at McArthur Court. Student tickets for the Notre Dame game are priced at $4.50.

Students wishing to secure Notre Dame tickets prior to Monday must purchase a student ticket package which also includes tickets to the final two home games of the season. The Ducks will host Washington State Nov. 6, and Arizona Nov. 20 to round out the home schedule.

The student ticket package sells for $10. Individual student tickets for the WSU and Arizona games will sell for $3.50 each.

The athletic department has an agreement with the ASUO to provide a maximum of 6,000 student tickets for each home game, according to Holsapple. However, the agreement is that a maximum of only 2,000 of those tickets must be sold to students on an individual game basis the week before each home game.

If less than 4,000 student tickets have been sold by Monday, less than 6,000 student tickets will be sold. The remainder of the tickets will go on sale to the general public as reserved seats for $15.50. Those tickets will be in section 5, according to Holsapple. The student section, which is general admission seating, usually includes sections 5-9.

Holsapple said that only about 2,000 student packages had been sold as of Monday. He said he is a "little bit surprised" that more ticket packages haven't been sold. "They might just be waiting for the single game tickets," he said. "Students, a lot of the time, wait until the last minute."

chambers of commerce, expresses the expectant mood of local business-people. "We've been gearing for the game for two months. I've got tons of shirts ordered. We're anticipating a fantastic four or five days. It's going to be a real positive boost that I think the community needs. There're going to spend money whether the Ducks win or lose.

"Anyone that doesn't have a positive attitude that weekend will never have one," she says. "It's going to be money in our pockets and just a real good time. And the sun's gonna shine. And I have a feeling that we're gonna win. Is that asking too much?"
