Lebanon's leader meets pope, terrorists bomb Rome embassy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II warmly embraced Pres. Amin Gemayel of Lebanon at a Vatican audience Thursday and endorsed the president's call for withdrawing all foreign troops from war-ravaged Lebanon.

Despite tight security, Gemayel was treated to an elaborate welcome usually reserved for official visits, complete with a review of Swiss guards assigned to the Vatican. The Vatican called the visit private.

Italian authorities deployed helicopters and riot police for Gemayel's arrival a day after terrorists bombed the Lebanese Embassy in Rome. He traveled by military helicopter from one meeting place to another, using a bulletproof limousine only for short distances.

Gemayel was on the last stop of a tour that took him to the United States and France in search of political support for the withdrawal of Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian forces that made Lebanon a battleground this summer.

Specifically, the president wants a tenfold increase in the 3,800-man multinational peacekeeping force in Beirut that includes U.S. Marines, French and Italian soldiers. He also is asking for $12 billion in long-term economic assistance.

The peacekeeping force moved into Beirut at Lebanon's request last month after the slaughter of hundreds of Palestinians in refugee camps and the assassination of Gemayel's brother, President-elect Bashir Gemayel.

'Solitude' writer awarded nobel for literature

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Gabriel Garcia Marquez, Colombian author of the novel "One Hundred Years of Solitude" and the world's best-selling writer in the Spanish language, was awarded the 1982 Nobel Prize in literature Thursday.

It was the first Nobel award to a Colombian in the 79 years the prestigious prizes have been given and the second first for Latin America this year. Former Foreign Minister Alfonso Garcia Robles of Mexico, co-winner of the peace prize, was his country's first winner.

The 18-member Swedish Academy of Letters said it honored the 54-year-old Latin American writer of novels, short stories and political journalism "for his novels and short stories in which the fantastic and the realistic are combined in a richly composed world of imagination, reflecting a continent's life and conflicts."

"Gabriel Garcia Marquez has created a world of his own which his microcosms," the academy said. "In its tumultuous, bewildering yet graphically convincing authenticity, it reflects a continent and its human riches and poverty."

Garcia Marquez is representative of a generation of Latin American writers in the forefront of contemporary literature, among them Carlos Fuentes of Mexico, Julio Cortazar of Argentina and Peru's Mario Vargas Llosa.

Critics said they breathed new life into the novel form, which many thought had become moribund.

Praising the vitality of the literature produced in a continent boiling with violent political conflict, a Swedish Academy spokesman noted that Garcia Marquez "like most of the other important writers, is strongly committed on the side of the poor and the weak against domestic oppression and foreign economic exploitation."
