Shadowfax, a nationally known jazz band, will appear in concert at the EMU Ballroom Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

The band's second album, "Shadowfax" released by Windham Hill Records, has been in the number seven spot of Radio & Records jazz chart for five weeks. "Shadowfax" is also a "top jazz album pick" by Billboard magazine.

The band describes itself as a fusion band, mixing jazz, rock and classical. Their music has been described as "ethereal, dreamy and delicate yet sensual."

Originally from Illinois, the band is headed by producer/composer/saxophonist Chuck Greenburg, who recently performed at the Silva Concert Hall in the Hult Center for the Performing Arts with Will Ackerman and George Winston.

Sharing the front line with Greenberg is G.E. Stinson on the guitar and piano. Billboard called Stinson's acoustic guitar style, "lacy."

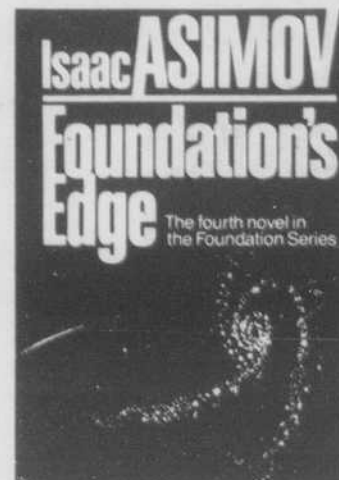

The pair of musicians are joined by bass player Phil Maggini, who has shared billings with Muddy Waters and Hound Dog Taylor, and drummer Stuart Nevitt, who's played with Raoul DeSouza of Brazil.

Shadowfax has been performing together since the early seventies, when they released their first album on the ABC label. The band has performed with Jean-Luc Ponty, Jan Hammer and Alex de Grassi.

Tickets are available at the EMU Main Desk, Everybody's Records and Earthriver Records. Prices for students are $3.50 in advance, $4.50 the day of the show. Prices for non-students are $4.50 in advance, $5.50 the day of the show.

Heard about the Cervical Cap?

The Cervical Cap is used as a barrier method of birth control. It is a thimble shaped cap made out of rubber which fits tightly over the neck of the cervix, preventing sperm from entering the uterus. The cap was used in this country years ago, but has not gained popularity until recently.

It has been used for years successfully in Western Europe. At this time the cervical cap is not approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Studies are being done to determine its current effectiveness and safety.
