Students show
some interest in LTD tickets

A promotional campaign to sell reduced-price bus passes to University students has triggered at least marginal interest, according to a representative from the Lane Transit District.

Ed Bergeron, LTD marketing representative, said 240 passes had been sold as of Monday. The passes, good for April, May and June, sell for $40 at the University bookstore and the EMU main desk. They are good for unlimited use and are transferable to other University students.

"We really didn't know what kind of response to expect," Bergeron said. LTD administrators had hoped to sell 500 passes this term, but Bergeron is satisfied with the number and hopes to see it increase next fall term.

"There seems to be a lot of interest among students, staff and faculty about riding the bus," he said. LTD is planning another promotional campaign when the new students arrive on campus next fall.

Bergeron said LTD officials are negotiating with University administrators and the ASUO for possible subsidization of the pass fall term. If the University contributes some money, the cost of the pass may be lowered, according to Bergeron.

Jobs program assists youths

Economically disadvantaged Eugene residents between the ages of 16-21 are eligible for a summer youth employment program sponsored by the Eugene Job Training Center.

The program incorporates part-time work experience with emphasis on self-directed job search methods. An eight-week job training camp with an emphasis on preparing for a career is also included.

Applications, which are due April 29, are available at the Job Training Center in Suite 336 of the Atrium Building, 99 W. 10th Ave., Eugene.

For more information, call 687-5390 or 687-5548.
