

Colts: What do you do with Elway?

From Associated Press reports

The phones rang repeatedly Wednesday at the headquarters of the Baltimore Colts — but none of the callers was offering to take John Elway off their hands.

Instead, the callers were, for the most part, Colts fans — some identified themselves as former fans — condemning or praising the team for making Elway, the Stanford quarterback, its No. 1 choice in Tuesday's National Football League draft.

Elway has the options of playing baseball in the New York Yankees' organization, waiting a year and re-entering the draft, perhaps waiting two years and becoming a free agent able to deal with any NFL team, or signing with the Oakland Invaders of the United States Football League.

The NFL negotiation rights to Elway remain Baltimore's until the 1984 draft, unless he signs with the USFL or a Canadian Football League team, in which case his rights would belong to the Colts for four years.

The one thing which seems increasingly certain is that he will not play for the Colts. He told them so in the weeks preceding the draft, and told them even more emphatically shortly after being picked.

"They were being greedy," Elway said of the Colts' General Manager, Ernie Accorsi, and its head coach, Frank Kush.

Accorsi, Kush and other club officials spent much of Wednesday closeted in their offices, pondering their prospects of either inducing Elway to change his mind or of dealing him to a West Coast team or the Dallas Cowboys, Elway's preferences within the NFL.

Oregon drops Beavers, meet powerful Bears

One of the top teams in the nation, the California Golden Bears invade Eugene for a Nor-Pac women's softball doubleheader today at 2 p.m. at Oregon Field.

"California is in the top 15," said coach P.J. Harlin.

"For Berkeley (Cal) and Fresno St., (the Ducks' next foe) we need to get ready," Harlin says, "Fresno St. was 7th in the nation the last time I looked. We just have to swing away."

Oregon will be at full strength against Cal with a healthy lineup for a change. Tami Caldwell and Ruth House came off the sidelines last Tuesday just in time to share with their teammates a nine inning 1-0 upset win over Oregon State. The win gave Oregon a non-counting Nor-Pac twin-bill after the Ducks lost the opener 3-0.

The second game was a showcase of leftfielder's Krista Parent's defensive abilities. Twice in the extra innings, Parent caught OSU long balls with runners in scoring position, stopping the rallies.

OSU was guilty of stranding 10 baserunners on base for the game.

A costly wild pitch by OSU pitcher Trina Marvin scored a sliding Jackie Coburn from third base in the ninth inning to give the Ducks the win.

"That makes the whole season," said Harlin.
