

Ma Bell stains lawyer's listing

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Dozens of would-be clients have been calling attorney Daniel Roby to tell him they're "working on their tans" since the latest Yellow Pages directory hit the streets.

On page 29 of the 1983-84 directory is a listing for Roby's office. The name, address and telephone number are correct, but the ad also says Roby specializes in "Darker Personal Injury" cases.

The lawyer explained a Yellow Pages representative called last year to ask him to renew his ad, and Roby asked for bolder type.

"I told them they might make 'personal injury' a little darker," he said. "Needless to say, I didn't expect them to take me literally."

"We have been deluged ever since with calls from people who say they're working on their tans so I can handle their cases," Roby said.

He said he contacted the company after the ad appeared and was told he wouldn't have to pay the approximately $35 a month that such a listing would normally cost.
