The low ticket prices are "the result of a strong feeling we have about the festival," Saltzman says. "If people choose not to come, that's fine, but they can't say we're an elitest group," he says.

"I think it's really important for people to know what we're trying to do and take advantage of that."

All evening concerts are at the Hult Center for the Performing Arts in downtown Eugene. Single admission tickets are $6.25, $9.25, $12.25 and $15.25. Series tickets are available for these performances, as well. Seating is reserved. Tickets are on sale at the music school and at the Hult Center box office, as well as other Hult Center ticket outlets.

In conjunction with the festival, the traveling exhibit "Germans to America — 300 Years of Immigration — 1683-1983" will be on display beginning June 24 in the Hult Center's main lobby. Through historical paintings, the documentary will illustrate the German immigrants' lifestyles, whose descendants now comprise 28.8 percent of America's population.
