

note, which read "This is a political railroad."
Despite the two and a half year struggle in getting the conviction reversed, Whitley doesn't regret the incident.
"I'm glad I did it. I'm proud to have stood with the people of the world and the Iranians. Not only was it right (the ribbon-burning), I think it was necessary to make a political statement, particularly at that time when the Iranian people were under attack from the press and the U.S. government.

"This case has been training on the possibility for standing with people all over the world," she said.

THE BIJOU 686-BIJU
492 E. 13th
EUGENE PREMIERE
Starts Friday, July 29
Marcello Mastroianni/Harvey Keitel/Jean-Lou's Barrauli/Hanna Schygulla

LA NUIT de VARENNES

"A brainy, compulsively absorbing film..." Jack Kroll, Newsweek
"A masterly film, at once superbly intelligent and strangely poignant" Richard Schickel, Time
"Tumultuously funny. 'La Nuit de Varennes' is acted to the hilt by everyone in it." Vincent Canby, NY Times Director Ettore Scola takes the historical occurrence of Louis XVI's attempted flight from France as the basis for this delightful, fast moving tale. In pursuit of the King's coach, we find none other than American Revolutionary Thomas Paine (Keitel), aging ladies man Casanova (Mastroianni), French writer Restif de Bretonne (Barrauli), and the beautiful, passionately monarchist Countess de Borde (Schygulla). Scola deftly captures the sense of immediacy and humor in this potentially ponderous subject, yet his characters are endowed with an awareness of the far-reaching significance of the events they witness.
