Oregon favored to win Pac-10 cross country

By Rich Skeen
Of the Emerald

Oregon's men's cross country team, winner of five of the last seven Pac-10 championships, puts its 1982 title on the line Saturday when it travels to Palo Alto, Calif., for the 1983 Pac-10 meet.

The Ducks, led by All-American Jim Hill (who won last year's individual title), are playing the familiar role of meet favorites.

Oregon coach Bill Dellinger gives no indication that he disagrees with the pre-meet prediction.

"I think our team is better than last year's," says Dellinger, who has coached the Ducks to four National Collegiate Athletic Association championships and eight Pac-10 crowns. "We're ranked seventh nationally, and we can be better than that, especially if everyone remains healthy."

Dellinger, however, may be missing two top runners Saturday. John Zishka (heel injury), fourth at last year's Pac-10s, is questionable for Saturday. Vance Blow, Oregon's No. 4 runner last fall, has a virus and may be redshirted.

But the Ducks have able replacements for Zishka and Blow. Besides Hill, Harold Kuphaldt (21st at 1982 Pac-10), Matt McGuirk (26th) and Brad Simpson (43rd at 1982 NCAA's)

You're holding a bargain! Your subscription to the Emerald is less than 3¢ a day

Here's how your subscription works:

Each year, the ASUO and the U of O Administration purchase the Emerald through two bulk subscriptions. The student subscription is $77,900 and the staff subscription is $7,506 this year.

All other Emerald costs, like rent and salaries, are paid by advertising sales and jobwork.

It takes a lot of money to produce the newspaper you're holding. This year, we'll spend:

$83,100 Printing the Emerald. That amounts to tons of ink and paper. A metric ton of newsprint ten years ago cost $185. Now it runs $445, before the presses start to roll!

$81,737 Typesetting and Production. Each news story and advertisement is carefully typeset and checked for the greatest possible accuracy.

$6,908 Distribution. We have over 60 distribution points on campus. Our distribution person is at work by 5:30 each morning to make sure you get your newspaper on time.

$51,088 Rent, telephones, insurance, and state and federal taxes. The Emerald is a non-profit, tax-paying corporation with all the expenses an average company might have.

$139,567 News and Advertising department costs and salaries. Over 70 students work in these two departments as they write and edit stories, produce photos and sell ads.

$472,392 That's our budget for expenses this year. It includes everything from paper clips to maintenance on our computer drives. It also includes an independent audit of our accounts so that we know our books are in order.

Your subscription paid for only 18% of this newspaper.
Now that's a good buy.
