U.S. gunners shell Beirut

BEIRUT — U.S. jets thundered over Beirut Monday after two overnight attacks on American Marines, and gunners shelled the capital's harbor for the first time since the summer of 1982.

The onslaught on Marine positions did not result in any casualties and caused only minor damage to the Beirut airport where the Marines are stationed.

But the 15-minute bombardment of the port wounded four construction workers shortly after noon. Police were unable to determine who was responsible for the first shelling of the harbor area since Israel's 1982 summer invasion of Lebanon.

One salvo of five shells and rockets slammed into the harbor area about a mile east of the U.S. Embassy on West Beirut's seafloor.

"Nothing fell close enough to alarm us," said embassy spokesman John Stewart.

The artillery and rocket-propelled grenade attacks on the U.S. Marine contingent at Beirut's international airport came before midnight and at daybreak, said a Marine spokesman, Maj. Dennis Brooks.

A grenade and some small arms fire hit the southern perimeter of the base, said Brooks. He said Marines returned the fire with small arms and machine guns.

At daybreak, two artillery rounds hit the airport runway. Brooks said the origin of those shells was not determined.

Bus strike continues

WASHINGTON — Members of the Amalgamated Transit Union have voted overwhelmingly to reject the latest Greyhound offer to settle a bitter strike, a union official said Monday.

Rex Hardesty, a spokesman for the AFL-CIO here, revealed the vote as representatives of the union were meeting with reporters in Phoenix, Ariz., home base of Greyhound.

According to Hardesty, 9,181 union members voted to reject the new offer, while only 335 voted in favor of it. That represented a margin of 96.4 percent voting against the strike.

Hardesty noted, however, that about 3,000 members of the union did not cast ballots on the latest company offer.

Striking Greyhound workers represented by a Portland-based local voted overwhelmingly against this latest contract offer.

Workers from Local 1055 of the Amalgamated Transit Workers Union voted 340-7 against the contract, President Darrell Horn said Monday.

Local 1055 represents about 450 workers from Oregon, Idaho and parts of Montana, Washington, California and Utah. A Seattle-based local voted 185-3 against ratification, he said.

Court affirms death penalty

ATLANTA — The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals denied a request Monday for a stay of execution for convicted killer Robert Sullivan, who is scheduled to die today in Florida's electric chair.

His lawyer, Eric Freedman, had urged the court to postpone the execution until the U.S. Supreme Court rules on the issues of "proportionality review" in death penalty cases.

He cited the case of Texas inmate James David Autry, who won a stay of execution Oct. 11 pending the Supreme Court ruling on the issue.

Circuit Judge Paul Roney presided over the three-judge panel that heard the case. He said at the end of today's 2½-hour hearing that he was "quite aware" that the ruling would be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Proportionality review involves the argument by death penalty opponents that similar sentences are not always meted out for similar crimes, making the death penalty in many cases a violation of the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

Sullivan, 36, has been on Florida's Death Row since Nov. 14, 1973 — longer than any other inmate in the nation. His execution is set for 7 a.m. Tuesday at Florida State Prison near Starke, but it can be rescheduled until noon Wednesday, when Florida Gov. Bob Graham's warrant expires.

Guatemalan aid delayed

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, upset over a resurgence of human rights violations in Guatemala, is delaying the sale of helicopter parts to the Central American nation's rightist military government, officials say.

State Department officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said the delay in the sale reflects U.S. concern over the upturn in political violence — including attacks against employees of U.S.-funded educational programs.

The officials said an earlier approval for the sale is not formally under review, but some senior officials want it withdrawn and, in the meantime, final permission for a $2 million purchase of military helicopter parts is being held up to signal U.S. displeasure.

The latest chill in U.S.-Guatemalan relations also complicates President Ronald Reagan's strategy of drawing Guatemala more directly into regional efforts to reduce leftist influences in Central America. Before adjourning 10 days ago, Congress barred direct military and economic aid to Guatemala and 51 congressmen urged cancellation of the helicopter parts sale.

The delay on the helicopter parts sale also coincides with the return to the United States of Ambassador Frederic Chapin for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays — an absence which, though officially characterized as "routine," is regarded as another sign of American displeasure.

New heart beats strong

MARSEILLE — The world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, Emmanuel Vitria, on Monday celebrated the 15th anniversary of his life-saving operation.

"I think I'll die at 100 years of age, shot by a jealous husband," the 62-year-old Vitria told reporters.

The survival rate for transplant patients has gone up recently, with about 30 percent of the patients surviving into their third year. But the average survival rate is only about two to three years, doctors say.

Vitria received his new heart Nov. 28, 1968. The operation was performed at the Salvator Hospital in Marseille by Professor Edmond Henry, who died last year of a heart attack. Vitria goes to the hospital for a checkup twice a month, and rides a bicycle and swims regularly.

"I've become kind of a good luck symbol for the people I visit in hospitals," he said. "It's a task I do willingly."
