'Beyond our jurisdiction'

SANTA ANA, Calif. — A distraught father searched Tijuana Monday with Mexican police seeking his 15-year-old son, who was mistakenly deported from California after a street-corner sweep by immigration officials.

Tijuana police issued a bulletin and circulated photos of Mario Moreno Lopez, who was left at the border by Immigration and Naturalization Service agents around midnight last Wednesday.

But the INS said searching was "beyond our jurisdiction."

Lopez and 33 other suspected illegal aliens were rounded up that morning on a Santa Ana street corner where Hispanics congregate to wait for rides to work, the INS said.

Capt. Rolando Castillo, Tijuana police spokesman, said officers in all precincts would "do everything humanly possible" to find him.

"I figure he'll try to cross again to the U.S. ...." he said, "because it's quite a long time now that we haven't found him."

He said the father, Juan Moreno, was "pretty depressed."

Joe Thomas, assistant regional director for the INS' Los Angeles sector, said a computer check confirmed Moreno's claim that Mario had a visa and was a legal resident of the United States.

But the INS refused to help right its wrong.

"We cannot form a search party to help locate him. That is beyond our jurisdiction," said INS spokesman John Belluardo.

Richard Wilhelm, INS operations supervisor at the San Ysidro border crossing, said

Sunday night the agency can't help unless Mario goes to the border station.

Moreno said Mario didn't have his resident alien card when he was picked up because "I was afraid he would lose it. I'm so sorry I didn't let him have it."

Rebels to ok election

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — A Nicaraguan rebel group based here says it will support elections planned for Nicaragua in 1985 if six conditions are met — including participation by rebel leaders, restoration of civil liberties and the presence of foreign observers.

Alfonso Robelo, one of five directors of the Revolutionary Democratic Alliance, said his group has no plans to disrupt voting if the conditions are not met but did not rule out the possibility.

The leftist Nicaraguan government is to announce an election date and other details Tuesday. The elections will be the first since the Sandinista National Liberation Front overthrew rightist Pres. Anastasio Somoza in July 1979.

Robelo, speaking at a news conference, said the conditions are:

- Participation of all representative forces in the country, including their directors.

- An end to the domination of government functions by the Sandinistas, who function as the ruling political party.

- Restoration of basic freedoms, suspended by the state of emergency in effect since March 1982 in Nicaragua.

- Allowing Latin American observers to be present for the elections.

- Clear electoral rules with formal public assurances that the Sandinistas will honor election results even if they lose.

•Elimination of what the alliance called "institutionalized repression" and removal of foreign military advisers.

The shirt off his back

ALBANY — An out-of-work Albany printer has been threatened with a damage suit by the Rajneesh Foundation International over T-shirts, posters and hats bearing a silkscreen image of the Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

The materials made and sold by Ronald Kennerly, 31, say, among other things, "Not wanted dead or alive."

Swami Prem Niren, a member of the Rajneesh legal staff, last week sent Kennerly a certified letter claiming the foundation "is owner of all rights ... to the name and likeness of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh."

The letter, delivered with 10 cents postage due, said in part:

"I have been informed that you are selling ... posters, T-shirts and hats with a drawn image of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh in a circle with a diagonal line crossing the image ... the manner of use is demeaning, violent and hostile."

The letter threatened legal action if Kennerly refused to quit selling the items and surrender all unsold stock.

Kennerly said he drew the picture of Rajneesh from a photograph, wrote the copy for a poster and showed it to his brother, a Douglas County attorney. His informal opinion was that "I was on pretty firm ground," Kennerly said.

"I'm allowed an opinion," Kennerly said. "I'm not saying I want him dead. I just want him moved."
