 "SUPREMELY CONFIDENT, Nathalie Baye sheds her librarian image with a vengeance, donning an orange wig and slipping into a leopard-skin tank top to strut her stuff as a 1000-franc hooker. It's not hard to see why LA BALANCE outgrossed every picture in France last year except E.T., a boxoffice phenomenon with a string of French Academy Awards in tow. LA BALANCE jolts along on joie de vivre."

Central America Witness

A remarkable and up-to-date presentation by Colette Craig, UO linguistics professor, and Margaret Thomas, a member of the Council for Human Rights in Latin America, who have just returned from an exclusive journey to El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua, conducted by Project National Interest.

Learn of their interviews with three US ambassadors, military attaches, human rights advocates, imprisoned Salvadoran labor leaders, San Salvador archbishop Rivera y Damas and her church officials, and leading political figures including the presidential candidate for El Salvador's National Reconciliation Party and Edgar Chamorro, a key representative of Nicaragua's counterrevolutionary movement.
