Rebels set land mines

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Anti-Sandinista rebels have placed land mines on stretches of roads leading from the Atlantic port of Puerto Cabezas to the Honduran border, civilian and military sources said today.

The sources, who spoke on condition that they not be identified for security reasons, said the land mines had been located close to towns and roads leading from Puerto Cabezas to the border town of Waspan some 60 miles away.

They said the action was aimed at Nicaraguan troops operating in the area, which is in North Zelaya province in northeastern Nicaragua.

The mining of Nicaraguan ports, approved by Pres. Ronald Reagan, has become the center of international controversy. The Reagan administration says the mining was approved because of the Sandinistas' support for leftist rebels fighting the U.S.-supported government in El Salvador. The Nicaraguan insurgents deny, however, having received U.S. aid to plant the mines.

Arabs hijack Israeli bus

ISRAELI-OCCUPIED GAZA STRIP (AP) — Arab guerrillas armed with grenades hijacked a bus carrying about 40 Israelis and sped toward the Egyptian border, but Israeli soldiers shot out the tires, stormed aboard early Friday and rescued the hostages, a military spokesman reported.

A military communique said six of the bus passengers were wounded, but made no mention of casualties among the hijackers or soldiers. Sources said earlier that two hijackers were killed.

The communique said bomb experts were searching the bus for explosives.

Sources and witnesses reported that Israeli soldiers pursuing the bus shot out the tires and punctured the fuel tank, then surrounded the immobilized vehicle.

They said several people were wounded and others were held hostage on the bus by three or four armed guerrillas.

The hijackers seized the bus at about 7:30 p.m. after it had left Ashdod on its run from Tel Aviv to the Mediterranean port of Ashkelon.

Fire from the troops stopped the bus, which seats 42 people and left Tel Aviv nearly full, near the Palestinian refugee camp of Dir el Balah, 10 miles north of the Egyptian border, Israeli sources said.

Some passengers fled through an open door when the bus was halted, the sources said, and two others — including a pregnant woman — were freed later.

Israeli reporters on the scene and other sources said the bus was parked on a side road near the Dir el Balah camp, between Rafah and Gaza City, about 50 miles south of Tel Aviv in the territory captured from Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war.

Military sources said the Arabs apparently boarded the bus as paying passengers, then pulled weapons and forced the driver to take it to the border.

The daily newspaper Haaretz reported that the driver and eight of more than 40 passengers escaped and a pregnant woman was freed by the terrorists.

Liquor tax increased

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Thursday to raise the tax on liquor by $2 a gallon to help in the battle against government deficits.

By a 76-15 vote, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., that would have eliminated the higher liquor tax from a catchall tax increase bill written by the Senate Finance Committee. Ford would have made up the lost money — about $1.36 billion over three years — by eliminating the new tax incentives Pres. Ronald Reagan has proposed for luring businesses into blighted areas.

Ford said boosting the $10.50-a-gallon liquor taxes would destroy jobs in the industry and is unfair because wine and beer taxes would not be affected. A bill passed by the House on Wednesday includes an increase of $3.75 a gallon on liquor.
