Myers, Groenendaal make splashes at Twilight Meet

By Steve Turcotte
Of the Emerald

The Oregon Twilight Meet's claim to fame has traditionally been its Twilight Mile.

Saturday at Hayward Field, Oregon's Dub Myers upheld that tradition for the second consecutive year, roaring by Athletic West's Larry Mangan in the final 50 meters to win in 3:58.24.

But Myers was not the Twilight Meet's only claim to fame. Claudette Groenendaal made sure of that, turning in a sizzling 2:02.26 to win the 800 and highlight the Oregon women's portion of the meet.

Myers, who outkicked Mangan last year in the Twilight Mile, had a tough time repeating.

The Oregon sophomore looked like he would fade to third when first Mangan, and then Athletic West's Randy Wilson blew by him with 100 meters to go after he had led most of the last lap. But Myers put on a late burst starting at the top of the homestretch to catch first Wilson, and then Mangan, who clocked 3:58.36.

"After I started to pick it up, I realized I had more than I thought," said Myers, who roared by Mangan in the last few meters. "When there is someone in front of me, I have this feeling inside that says 'I can get this guy.' It doesn't always work, but that's how I feel."

Oregon senior Jim Hill added the other impressive Oregon win, taking the lead in the 3,000 meters with more than a mile to go and then holding off a late bid by Athletic West's Vince Draddy.

Hill, who ran 7:48.82, had hoped to get close to former Oregon star Rudy Chapa's American record of 7:37.7. But Kevin Ryan, the race rabbit, slowed down too much on the second lap.

On the last lap, Draddy made a move to make up the 20 meters Hill had on the field. Draddy moved to within five meters of Hill, but Hill held him off.

"I had no idea how far they were behind me — I couldn't hear them coming," said Hill. "But I heard 'Vince is coming, Vince is coming.' I'm glad I looked backed, because he might have caught me."

Another outstanding Oregon mark was turned in by Bobby George in the javelin, with a PR throw of 240-5.

Groenendaal owned her race by taking the lead from the start, racing through a 58.6-second first lap, and coming home in 61.4 seconds. Saturday's race, she said, was all part of her master plan for an NCAA 800 crown.

"I'm trying different kinds of races," said Groenendaal, who ranked as the best collegian at 800 meters this season until Tennessee's Joetta Scott ran a 2:01.15 at the Pepsi Meet in Los Angeles Sunday.

Oregon's Dub Myers was heads above the crowd in the Twilight Mile at Hayward Field Saturday. He won in 3:58.24.

Oregon's Joaquim Cruz was at the Pepsi Meet, too. He finished second in the mile — barely — to Steve Scott. Scott ran a blazing 3:52.99, Cruz a 3:53.00.

Groenendaal's course to a possible NCAA 800 crown has been steady this season. She began the season with fast times, and Saturday she tried to quicken her pace even more.

"Tonight, I wanted to go out and run a fast 600 meters and see what I could do," she said. "I started tying up a little at the end but I felt good. I just wanted to experiment and see what would happen."

"She looked great," Oregon coach Tom Heinonen said. "She slowed down in the last straightaway but kept her form."

Groenendaal's performance overshadowed an impressive 400-meter win for freshman Cam Talton. The former Washington high school sprint champ, better known for her work in the 100 and 200, clocked a PR 55.2 to win the 400.

Otherwise, Oregon got an NCAA-qualifying 4:20.75 from Kim Roth in the 1,500 meters, and Lisa Nicholson narrowly missed the NCAA's 59.40 requirement with a 1:00.16 in the 400-meter hurdles.
