Crowd pleasers on the way

By David Carlson
Of the Emerald

If the relaxed pace of the University's summer term feels more stale than stimulating, help is on the way with a variety of events where students and members of the community can meet one another.

Continuing its success is the Beer Garden tradition, which is sponsored by the EMU Food Service and the EMU Cultural Forum. Summer Beer Gardens will be held July 12, 19 and 26 and August 2 in the EMU Dining Room from 3-6 p.m. The free gardens feature musical entertainment, beer, wine and food at bargain prices.

Also on campus are several films being sponsored by the Student Campaign for Disarmament. These include Alfred Hitchcock's original version of "The Man Who Knew Too Much," the silent 1928 German film "Metropolis," and "The Graduate." The films show almost weekly and cost only $1.50. For more information, call 686-4248.

Off campus, musical events are plentiful.

At the Hult Center for the Performing Arts, the International Society of Music Educators Conference will feature a variety of concert performances ranging from classical to traditional music from around the world. The conference, which already is underway, runs through Saturday.

The Hult Center also will spotlight the popular vocal quartet The Manhattan Transfer. Tickets for the show, which will be held in Silva Concert Hall Sunday at 8 p.m., are available for $14.50 and $18. Call 687-5000 for more information.

There is more to musical life in the area, however, than Hult Center offerings. The Reggae Fest '84, featuring the Babylon Warriors and the locally popular Arousing Spirit, will live up the Elmira community July 21. Tickets are $6 in advance and $7 at the Fest. Call 935-1497 for information.

If summer session finds the bank account emptier than usual, the Eugene Parks and Recreation Department offers relief with its free summer parks concert series beginning this week.

The concert menu includes everything from guitarist Don Latarsky and Le Jazz Hot to the Eugene Horn Quartet and The Porcupines. The free concerts take place every Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Amazon Community Center and at the same time every Wednesday in the Westmoreland Community Center.

Performances also will be held at Monroe Park at 6:30 on Sunday evenings, at University Park at 6:30 on Monday evenings, and at Skinners Butte Park on Sunday afternoons at 2 p.m.

For the more athletic-minded individuals, the annual Prefontaine Classic track meet takes place July 21 at Hayward Field and should feature many potential 1984 Olympic performers. Tickets are $8. For more information, call 686-4464.

A sure cure for summertime boredom is the Creswell Air Fair on July 28 and 29. This annual event features stunt planes, skydivers and antique aircraft. Student admission is $3 and children under 7 will be admitted free. Phone 683-4946 for details.

WELCOME TO FAMILY HOUSING

The University of Oregon maintains two apartment communities to provide a friendly, supportive environment for over 650 students and their families.

Both the Amazon and Westmoreland developments not only offer you an inexpensive housing alternative, but also give you the chance to be neighbors with people of similar interests and to have easy access to numerous free or inexpensive services, facilities and programs.

Both communities have playgrounds for children, central recreation rooms, and childcare facilities. Each has an active resident government which offers services such as craft and exercise classes, single-parent support groups, kid's movies and parties, and parenting classes. Each has convenient coin-operated laundries and a recycling program.

Eligibility

University of Oregon Family Housing is open to married couples with or without children. Family housing also is open to single parents who have full custody of their children. One bedroom apartments may be occupied by one or two adults and a child less than a year old. Two bedroom apartments may have as many as two adults and three children. One member of the family must be a fulltime UO student three of the four terms each year.

Host families needed

Local host families are needed for Japanese students who will be participating in the University's American English Institute program from July 29 to August 14.

The AEI program is designed to help foreign students learn English as quickly as possible, says Jackie Uhler, AEI housing coordinator. The best way for a foreign student to learn English is to become a member of an American family and the student, in turn, can offer the family an opportunity to learn about a foreign country, she says.

Families hosting the students from Takachiho College of Commerce, Tokyo, will receive a stipend for room and board. Families should not only accommodate students as guests in their homes, but take them on family trips and help them adjust to American life, Uhler adds.

About 70 students, age 18 to 22, will enroll in the program this summer, she says.

For more information, call Uhler at 686-3945.
