'Mass Appeal' opens season

University Theatre will revive its summer production of "Mass Appeal," for two performances only, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the University's Robinson Theatre. The comic-drama by playwright Bill C. Davis will be performed to kick-off the 1984-85 season and as part of the Eugene Celebration happening this weekend.

The play is concerned with the conflict of ideals between two men pursuing the priesthood, yet, according to director Robert Barton, "it is not just about the Catholic Church, nor is it pious or somber. These characters could be involved in any public service profession and their confrontations are gutsy, earthy, and most of all, very funny."

Tom Lasswell and Dennis Smith will repeat their starring roles as Father Tim Farley and Deacon Mark Dolson. Both actors have completed graduate degrees at the University and have numerous professional credits. Lasswell has appeared with the original Second-City comedy group, performed both at the Old Globe Theatre and in the off-Broadway hit, "The Fantastics." Smith has performed in several seasons with the Ashland Shakespearean Festival, as well as numerous television and film productions.

"Mass Appeal" was first produced in 1981 on Broadway and is currently being made into a motion picture starring Jack Lemmon.

Reserve seats for both performances are $5 for general admission, $4 for senior citizens and $3.25 for University students.

Ensembles Continued from Page 9

This band is open to both music and non-music majors and, according to Paul, is swiftly "gaining in popularity."

The "Green Garter Band" is billed as the main public relations band for the University. Its 11 members, who are recruited from the marching band, play for local conventions, civic clubs, alumni functions and University campus groups.

Its musical styles range from dixieland to country and western, and from pop to swing.

Members of the Basketball Band will start blowing their horns for home games in November. These musicians are also auditioned from the marching band, and their pop, jazz and traditional pep band tunes unquestionably add to the excitement of Mac Court games.

The Oregon Wind Ensemble, which is earning a reputation as one of the finest concert wind groups in the Northwest, will perform on campus Nov. 29. Its 40 members also have been invited to participate in the College Band Directors National Conference in Boulder, Colorado, next February.

The 70-piece University Symphony, conducted by Assistant Prof. Marsha Mabrey, will host its first concert of the year on Nov. 28. The program includes Debussy's "Prelude To The Afternoon of a Fawn," Ralph Vaughan Williams' Ninth Symphony, "Danses Polovtsiennes" by Borodin, and Stravinsky's "Pulcinella Suite."

"It will be rather unique because it will feature the talents of some of our faculty members," Mabrey says.

For information on upcoming concerts or audition scheduling, contact the music school at 686-3761.
