Oregon fans weren't saying "Rose Bowl" after the Ducks demolished the University of the Pacific on Saturday, but some people are beginning to realize how good the Ducks really are after they upped their record to 4-0.

"I felt if we were going to do anything this year, we should be 4-0 at this point," said Oregon football coach Rich Brooks on the 30-14 win over the Tigers at Autzen Stadium on a sunny afternoon.

4-0 is exactly where the Ducks stand after they methodically crunched Pacific before 28,505 who witnessed Brooks' team add another chapter to their storybook beginning.

Oregon came into the game looking for revenge after suffering an embarrassing 21-15 season-opening loss to the Tigers last year.

"Last year when they beat us, I wanted to beat them by a 100 points (this year)," said Oregon linebacker Todd Welch who led a defensive charge that shut-down the Tigers' offense to six points in the first three quarters.

The Ducks set the tempo of the game in the first quarter with a strong running attack led by tailback Kevin McCall. McCall had 104 yards on the day, 52 of those in the first quarter alone.

"I think when the defense came through, that really turned the offense on," said McCall of the first scoring drive which was set up when Ducks' defense thwarted a Pacific scoring drive deep in Oregon territory. The Tigers helped the cause by fumbling the snap on a 40-yard field goal attempt.

Oregon scored on its second drive of the day when Alex Mack swept over from five yards to give the Ducks a 6-0 lead. Kicker Matt MacLeod added the extra point which gave the Ducks a 7-0 lead with 3:38 remain in the first quarter.
