Arizona wins, 28-14

Ducks' comeback falls short

By Alan Lazo
Of the Emerald

When it rains, it pours — just ask Oregon's sophomore quarterback Chris Miller.

Miller, after throwing 96 passes without an interception this season, tossed three errant passes Saturday including one late in the fourth quarter that ended an Oregon comeback as the Ducks dropped from the ranks of the undefeated with a 28-14 loss to the University of Arizona in Tucson.

Oregon fell to 1-1 in Pac-10 conference play, 4-1 overall, as Arizona jumped into the Pac-10 lead with a 3-0 record and 4-2 overall.

The "big play" of Saturday's contest in Arizona Stadium came with 4:51 left in the game, and the Ducks behind 21-14. Oregon was threatening to tie when they had the ball at the Wildcats' 17-yard line.

On first down, Miller saw flanker Scott Holman get behind his defender by a few steps, and he threw the ball. After that, all he saw was Arizona linebacker Byron Evans come across the field to intercept and squelch the Ducks' comeback hopes.

"He should not have thrown the ball. It was a first down play on the 17-yard line, he (Holman) was covered," said Oregon coach Rich Brooks.

Oregon's running game was ineffective against the nation's No. 3 ranked rushing defense. The Ducks gained only 37 yards on the ground which left the burden of Oregon's offense rest on Miller's passing.

"They have a good defense. They stopped our running game, and when we couldn't run, they started keying on the pass," said Miller who had 11 completions out of 32 attempts for 205 yards.

The Ducks opened the scoring when Miller hooked up with flanker Lew Barnes for a 80-yard touchdown bomb, but Arizona came back under the foot of kicker Max Zendejas and the running of Arizona quarterback Alfred Jenkins to take a 10-7 lead at half.

Arizona used a ball control offense in the third quarter to add 11 more points for a comfortable 21-7 lead. Oregon had the ball for only two minutes in the entire third period.

In the fourth period, Oregon appeared to be reborn after tailback Kevin McCall passed to Miller for a 11-yard touchdown. The trick play started with a pitch from Miller to McCall who hit the uncovered quarterback to bring the Ducks back into the game, 21-14, with 10:37 remaining.

Oregon's new life ended with Evans' interception at the Arizona 5.

Arizona's David Adams scored an insurance touchdown after the interception to give the Wildcats a 28-14 win.

The game was costly for the Ducks because safety Jeff Williams and tight end Rich Gaiser were lost for the season because of injuries.
