Forum lectures begin with talk on Faust legend

The first of this year's University Forum presentations will take place tonight as English Prof. Thelma Greenfield delivers a speech on Faust at the Eugene Conference Center.

The forum series is an opportunity for the University staff to meet with community members and address topics of interest. This is the third year of the program.

Greenfield's speech, titled "Soul for Sale: The Legend of Faust in Western Culture," is presented in conjunction with the Eugene Opera's production of Gounod's Faust on Wednesday and Friday.

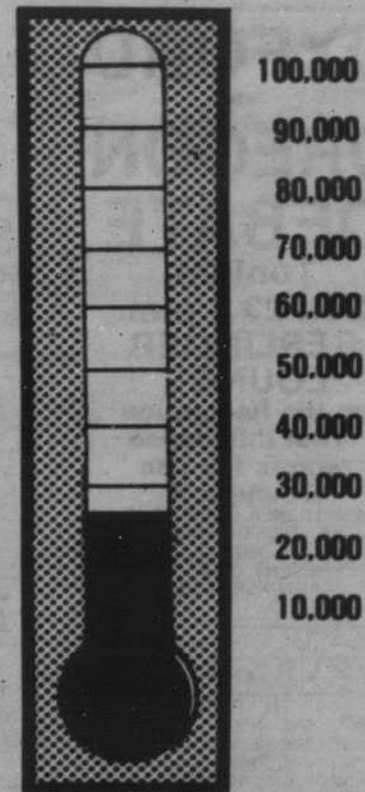

University President Paul Olum is scheduled to deliver the next address. His topic, "The History of the Manhattan Project," will be held Nov. 20.

Later this year, Brayton Polka, professor of humanities in history at York University in Toronto, will give a speech titled "The Greeks and the Bible: The Intergration of Faith and Reason in Human Life." The speech will take place Dec. 4.

All lectures begin at 8 p.m. at the Conference Center and admission is free. The University Forum is sponsored by the University of Oregon Failing Fund, the National Endowment for the Humanities and the City of Eugene.
