

Weather mars inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan, standing in the elegant warmth of a White House hallway, swore the presidential oath for a second term Sunday before 94 guests and a national television audience.

Outside, icy winds foretold the cancellation of Monday's traditional inaugural parade that had been expected to attract as many as 350,000 spectators.

As temperatures dropped at nightfall, Reagan asked his inaugural committee to call off the outdoor ceremony on the wind-swept West Front of the Capitol and move the planned reenactment of his swearing-in inside the building. There was talk of holding the ceremony in the Capitol rotunda.

Inaugural committee spokesman James Lake said the panel was awaiting House

Speaker Tip O'Neill's agreement because the event is technically a joint effort between the White House and the Congress.

Organizers hastened to invite the thousands of parade participants from across the country to gather in a suburban coliseum for a public thank-you from the president.

"I would like to cry," said Ron Walker, chairman of the inaugural committee which organized the parade. He said he believed it would be the first inaugural parade to be canceled by weather.

The Republic's 50th Inauguration was the sixth to fall on a Sunday. Tradition held that the pageantry would come Monday, and allowed the president to relax and watch the Super Bowl with 140 million other Americans — including O'Neill, according to aides who could not find him.

It was 9 degrees outside when Reagan took his oath in the red-carpeted grand staircase of the executive mansion's State Floor. Forecasters were predicting that Monday would be the coldest public inaugural in history and officials said they feared frostbite.

Monday's forecast called for temperatures in the teens and gusting winds that will make it feel like to 10 degrees to 20 degrees below zero.

White House advance chief William Henckel said Reagan decided to ask for cancellation of the long-planned extravaganza after being told it would be dangerous for participants and spectators alike to be out for an extended time with projected wind-chill factors ranging from 30 to possibly 50 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Under such conditions, Henckel said, "exposed flesh freezes in 12 to 15 minutes," which could present a severe frostbite danger.

Israeli troops begin pullout

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Officials said Israel's army began to pull armored cars, trucks and heavy equipment to new lines in southern Lebanon on Sunday, and a top diplomat warned Syria not to take advantage of Israel's planned withdrawal.

"The initial logistic stages of the redeployment have begun," said an Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv, who in accordance with army regulations spoke on condition he not be named. "Nonessential material is being transported southward."

The spokesman said the withdrawal of heavy gear was to be followed by a rollback on Feb. 18 of Israeli troops from a 200-square-mile chunk of territory along the Mediterranean coast.

Residents of Lebanese villages around Sidon, near current Israeli front lines, told reporters that several Israeli army trailers returned empty Sunday after carrying armored vehicles toward the village of Kaitouli, along the redeployment line.

State-run Beirut radio quoted witnesses in Sidon — the first major city expected to be evacuated — as saying convoys of about 70 Israeli jeeps, trucks and armored cars moved through the city at dawn on their way southward.

Israel's Cabinet last week approved a three-phase withdrawal plan, without fixing a date for completing the pullback to the Israeli-Lebanese border.

The Israel military spokesman said the army, which invaded Lebanon in June 1982, "will remain in the area fully equipped for operational purposes" until the rollback date.

Israel radio said liaison officers told residents of Sidon that Israel would reserve the right to return to the port city of 150,000 if anti-Israel guerrillas reorganize there.

Israel's U.N. ambassador, Benyamin Netanyahu, warned Syria not to take advantage of a military vacuum by sending its own army or Palestinian guerrillas into newly evacuated areas.

"I think the Syrians are well aware that certain movements on their part would not be acceptable to us," Netanyahu told reporters in Jerusalem.
