Spy satellite flies into space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Cradling a $300 million superspy satellite in its hold, the shuttle Discovery blasted off Thursday and opened a new chapter in America's militarization of space.

It was the 15th launch of a space shuttle, but the first devoted solely to military purposes.

Sources say the satellite is the first of a new generation of spaceborne spies capable of tracking Soviet missile tests and intercepting military and diplomatic communications in much of Europe, Asia and Africa.

The first of the secrets, the exact time of launch, was revealed dramatically. At 2:50 p.m. EST — nine minutes after NASA turned on the countdown clock for all to see — Discovery, with a spectacle impossible to hide, rose off its pad into a clear blue sky and headed eastward across the Atlantic, its thunderous roar heard for miles.

The ship, as tall as an 18-story building, could still be seen with the naked eye from the space center four and one-half minutes after liftoff, 200 miles to the east and 70 miles high, as a bright but distant star. It could also be seen in Miami, 200 miles south of the Cape.

The voices of the astronauts were not heard, because of Pentagon-imposed silence. Launch control at the Cape, then mission control in Houston, announced the progress of the flight in its first few minutes.

The satellite originally had been scheduled for launch in December aboard shuttle Challenger, but problems with that ship caused postponement. A rescheduled launch Wednesday was put off for 24 hours because of Florida's freezing weather.

Sanctuary aide found innocent

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Sanctuary movement worker Jack Elder was acquitted Thursday of illegally transporting Salvadoran aliens, in a case that pitted Reagan Administration policy on Central America against a growing church-led relief effort.

The seven-man, five-woman federal court jury deliberated only a few hours before acquitting Elder, the director of Casa Oscar Romero, a halfway house for Central Americans in San Benito.

Elder, 41, faced up to 15 years in prison and fines totaling $6,000 if convicted. He has maintained he was acting out of his religious convictions and was being singled out by the government for prosecution.

Federal officials have repeatedly maintained that Central Americans entering the U.S. illegally seek economic betterment, not political asylum, as the sanctuary movement claims.

Elder and sanctuary worker Stacy Merkt face another trial on charges of transporting illegal aliens Feb. 5 in Brownsville federal court.
