

Rasmussen is Oregon's MVP

Oregon center Blair Rasmussen capped off his senior season by winning the Steven J. Award as the outstanding member of the men's basketball team in the group's awards banquet at the Valley River Inn Monday night.

It was the third straight year Rasmussen has won the award, which is voted upon by members of the team. Rasmussen, who made the All-Pacific-10 Conference team, started 114 games and ended up as the fourth leading scorer in Oregon history with 1,554 points. The 7-foot senior from Auburn, Wash., led the Pac-10 in scoring this season with an 18.4 average.

Senior guard Chris Harper was voted as the most inspirational player for the Ducks and collected the John Warren Award. Harper scored 596 points in his two-year career at Oregon and posted an average of 10.1 points per game.

The Carl Greve Award, presented to the team's top player based on athletic and scholastic ability, was given to senior forward Mike Matheson. Usually the first man off the bench, Matheson transferred to Oregon after a season with the University of San Francisco.

Oregon, 15-16 overall, finished in sixth place in the Pac-10 with an 8-10 record. Besides the three senior award-winners, seniors Greg Bell, Greg Trapp and graduating manager Kevin Ohanesian were given special recognition for their efforts to the Duck program.

Rasmussen will play in the Aloha All-Star Classic (April 11-13) in Honolulu and will participate in the Elks Hall of Fame Game (April 27) at Indianapolis.

Paxson's out indefinitely; Blazers play Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Portland Trail Blazer guard Jim Paxson underwent surgery for a dislocated finger Monday and will be out of the National Basketball Association team's lineup indefinitely, a team spokesman says.

Paxson injured his right ring finger Monday during practice in Kansas City, where the Blazers will face the Kings tonight, team spokesman John White said.

He underwent surgery at the University of Kansas Medical Center and will not play Tuesday, White added.

"Beyond that, we really don't know at this time," White said, adding that Paxson will return with the team to Portland on Wednesday.

The Blazers are 2-2 so far on their five-game road trip after falling Sunday to the Milwaukee Bucks, 110-94.
