KELLY FEALY: The weather's bad, and that's the pits. It means no softball shoes, caps or mits. And if it's bad on Thursday, that will be quite a bummer. What a drag, one less chance and it's almost summer.
General Science reads the student phone book. Does that mean you're smart and to know where to look? I'm a guy who thinks it would be nice to know you better. But is shy and wierd enough to write this dumb ryming letter.
If the guessing is tough then here's one clue: I'd like to run the bases with you in Softball II. 5-7

ELIZABETH
We've all wished
That arms were wings
But heartache comes;
We can't have these things,
So keep your mind
on local shores
And head upon your shoulders,
For to hold onto
What can't be touched
Turns pebbles into boulders. 5-7
