BURDEN OF DREAMS

Burden of Dreams is a chilling but finely balanced account of what might ordinarily be considered artistic folly; German filmmaker Werner Herzog's obsession to complete the painfully plagued jungle shooting of Fitzcarraldo. Disaster after disaster befalls Herzog's tale of a penniless, opera-mad dreamer (Klaus Kinski) who risks everything to build a grand opera house in the jungle river port of Iquitos. Blank's film grows into a fascinating (and highly controversial) record of an obsessed genius and his battle to finish his project in the face of plane crashes, torrential rains, attacks by armed, hostile Indians, the loss of several leading actors, and the eruption of a full-fledged border war around him. The obvious irony running through Burden of Dreams is that creating the movie Fitzcarraldo proved just as dubious and perilous an enterprise as the one on which it was based.
