After VonDragonclough,

had seen to it from his throne atop that universal wonder of modern design known as PLC, that this University was rid of Iron Man (who was last seen dancing with the pizza delivery man into the setting sun). VonDragonclough himself disappeared. In the darkest and foulest of broths, however, release their tongues under breath and venture to say that they saw VonDragonclough in a den of crazed Tahitian women, or in a sorority girl's bedroom stealing panties. But I believe this tale: On a lawn in France bordered by a smooth river, VonDragonclough laid with the fairest of maidens when suddenly, no less than 12 screaming Bohemian gypsies attacked and abducted him to their mountain hideaway where he was exposed to various tortures including workings of several Scandinavian dolls for five straight days. Disgraced, VonDragonclough has subjected himself to their continued punishment and remains there to this day.
