BALANCING

Athletics and Academics

Q: What is the role of the student-athlete, as their title suggests, off the athletic field? Where do they fit into the University as academic students? Do they encounter special problems? Should they have special privileges along with rules and regulations?

A: Inside, Bill Byrne, Oregon's Athletic Director, along with Chapin Clark, the faculty athletic representative, speak out on what is being done to help make sure the student-athlete fits into universities across the country and, in particular, what's happening with Oregon's student-athletes.
