The State of Oregon Athletics

Around the country, scandals have rocked the world of collegiate athletics, forcing the NCAA to take harsh measures to stop violations. Inside, Dan Williams, vice-president for administration, speaks out on the state of Oregon's own athletics program. Meanwhile, Oregon is forced to survive in the Pac-10 conference where they are beset with financial woes as institutions around the league work with up to twice Oregon's $7.7 million athletic budget. — Page 4B
