

Duck coach resigns

(AP)—Dave Walker, a linebacker coach at Oregon for six years, has resigned in what is expected to be the first in a series of changes that will result in a new defensive coordinator for head coach Rich Brooks.

Joe Schaffeld, who has been defensive coordinator the past three seasons, will reportedly remain on Brooks' staff but will return to his former duties as defensive line coach, The Register-Guard newspaper said.

Walker said Wednesday that Brooks "feels a change has to be made defensively as it was offensively three years ago."

The Oregon Ducks' defense ranked 10th in the Pacific 10 Conference this season.

Three years ago, after Oregon had ranked last in the Pac-10 in total offense two straight years, Brooks fired offensive coordinator Erik Widmark and hired Bob Toledo. This season, the Ducks had one of their most productive offenses ever.

Walker, who played football at Oregon, has coached outside linebackers since joining Brooks' staff in 1980. He served as a graduate assistant coach at Washington, UCLA and Brigham Young before getting his first full-time job at Washington State.

Yanks, White Sox deal

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox settled for second-best, swapping pitchers when they really wanted to trade hitters, as the official portion of baseball's annual winter meetings came to a close Thursday.

The trade that the two clubs made sent left-hander Britt Burns and two minor leaguers to the Yankees for right-hander Joe Cowley and catcher Ron Hassey.

The trade the Yankees and White Sox might yet make would send free-agent catcher Carlton Fisk to the Yankees for designated hitter Don Baylor.

The deal was the 11th at these meetings, involving 25 major league players.

Before making the second deal with New York, the White Sox must first sign Fisk, and both players are demanding bonuses for waiving no-trade rights. Agent Jerry Kapstein, who represents each, said Thursday that neither has yet given assurances these rights will be waived.

Though neither club would confirm that the Fisk-Baylor deal would be made, White Sox General Manager Ken Harrelson said: "It's Kapstein's party now. You have to follow his lead, and that's what we're doing."

Kapstein said "nothing is imminent" with Fisk.

Burns, a 26-year-old left-hander, was 18-11 with a 3.96 ERA last year for the White Sox, from whom he had asked to be traded. An earlier trade with Atlanta for Burns had fallen through. Burns broke in with the White Sox in 1979 and has spent the past 6 1-2 seasons with the club.

Cowley, a 27-year-old right-hander, was 12-6 with a 3.95 ERA, making 26 of his 30 appearances as a starter. Cowley was signed as a free agent by the Yankees on Oct. 20, 1983.

Hassey, 32, hit .296 for the Yankees last season with 42 RBI and 13 home runs in 267 at-bats. A left-handed hitter, Hassey was platooned at catcher for much of the season with Butch Wynegar, who is a free agent.

The only catchers left now on New York's roster who have major league experience are second-year player Scott Bradley and Juan Espino.

"We have plans to take care of our catching needs, and we're not concerned about it," Yankees Manager Lou Piniella said, indicating a Fisk deal could be made soon.

Viking netter honored

PORTLAND (AP)—Lynda Johnson of Portland State was named the NCAA Division II volleyball player of the year Thursday night.

Johnson also was named to the NCAA Division II all-America team for the fourth year in a row. The awards were announced at a banquet preceding this weekend's Division II volleyball Final Four competition.

Also named to the all-America squad were Lisa Couch of Portland State, Heather Hafner and Shelli Mosby of Cal State-Northridge, Bonnie Beard of Sam Houston State and Clara Pierema of Cal Poly-Pomona.

Named to the second team were Theresa Huitinga of Portland State, Janice Louie and Janice Star of Cal State-Sacramento, Terri Dantuma of Cal Poly-Pomona, Annie Knise of Cal-Riverside and Patty Theis of Ferris State.

Defending champion Portland State is serving as host of the Final Four for the second straight year.

Cal State-Northridge, last year's runnerup and the national champion in 1983 and 84, takes a 26-9 record into Friday night's semifinals against Nebraska-Omaha, 41-6. Portland State, 34-5, plays Sam Houston State, 45-6, in the second semifinal contest.

The third-place and championship matches are scheduled for Saturday.
