players.
At the Mirage Bowl in Tokyo, Japan where the Ducks met USC, Yonan felt that there was an added sense of comraderie between the Oregon players and the rally. During warm-ups, Yonan threw passes for tailback Eugene King while safety Doug Judge defended.

"That wouldn't happen at Autzen, but over there, it was an example of showing the players some real support. I think they appreciated that."

Support is the key term, that's the purpose of the cheerleaders. Last Friday, rally adviser Mike Maulding saw men's basketball coach Don Monson preparing for the Civil War tilt, walking around with a piece of athletic tape on his forehead — a la Jim McMahon — with the words "BE POSITIVE" on it.

Saturday night, as the OSU game was about to begin, the cheerleaders each wore replicas of the Monson attire emblazoned with the same message. The players all smiled and Monson was laughing.
