

Science III will be renamed after former professor

Science III soon will be renamed Ralph Huestis Hall, in honor of former University biology Professor Dr. Ralph Ruskin Huestis.

Huestis, best known for his extensive research on wild deer mice, taught at the University biology department for 38 years, from 1924 until his retirement in 1962.

In 1982, former University President Robert Clark wrote a monogram about Huestis' life and contributions to the University for the University Foundation.

"In 1932, scientific research at the University as a tool for the discovery of new knowledge and as a way of training new scientists came almost to a dead halt," the paper states. "(Huestis)' greatest achievement may have been keeping science as science alive in the darkest years of the University's history."

The University has been considering the name change for months, says Muriel Jackson, assistant vice-president for administration.

"Last fall, the biology department asked that action be taken," Jackson says. "After skimming the monograph, his quality, nature, depth and collegial association with the University becomes apparent."

Upon Huestis' retirement, the University awarded him a medal for distinguished service, praising him as "teacher, naturalist, scholar and academic statesman."

Huestis came to the University in 1924. He had graduated from McGill University in 1914 with a bachelor of science in agriculture. After four years of military service in the veterinary corps of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, he enrolled at the University of California, receiving his master's in 1920 and his doctorate in 1924.
