

Duck women leash the Huskies

By Robert Collias

The Oregon women's track team put a leash on the University of Washington Huskies with a 84½-51½ dual-meet victory that ran the Ducks winning streak to 20. The meet was not an easy one for coach Tom Heinonen and his troops, however.

A resounding chorus of jackhammers greeted the Ducks for the first two hours of the meet as construction was occurring at Husky Stadium, but Heinonen was not too upset.

"I guess the jackhammers were even for everybody," Heinonen said. "Seriously though, we wanted to slide through this meet, and we ended up having to run some people in their best events, and go a little harder than we wanted to."

The Ducks had some stellar performances in the field as they left most of their top distance runners home.

Janell Thorsland continues to show the promise that she displayed two years ago as a freshman, winning the long jump at 19-10¼, and the high hurdles in 14:32.

"Thorsland is ready to become our first 20-foot long jumper any day now," Heinonen said.

Yvette Brown continued to improve as she won the discus at 156-5 to go along with a third in the shot put.

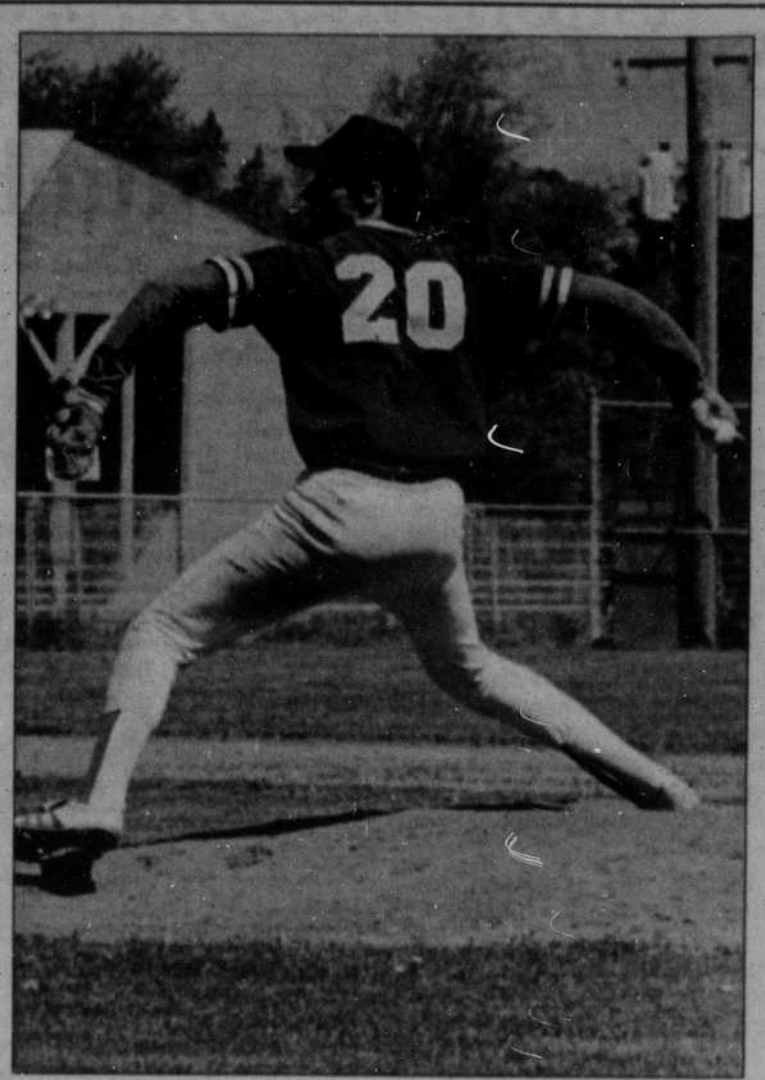

Heinonen was pleased with the 400-meter relay that won in

46.64. "Best of all we put together a decent 400 relay for the first time this year," Heinonen said. "With a couple of good hand-offs we could get the school record (46.28), and possibly break 46 seconds."

The Ducks must now ready themselves for a showdown with Brigham Young University and the University of California this weekend.

Oregon has never lost to either team in three meetings, but Heinonen is still concerned.

"Brigham Young is tough, they might be better than Washington State (a team the Ducks beat 70-65 last week)," Heinonen said. "California doesn't have much depth, but they have some great athletes."

Oregon pitcher Pat Marsh throws some heat Sunday as the club baseball team swept a doubleheader from the Pacific JV's 6-4, and 11-9.

Marsh pitched the first game as the Ducks improved their record to 4-9 on the season.

The team will be in action Friday at 2:30 p.m. against the Oregon Institute of Technology at Howe Field.

The Oregon men's tennis team brought home a pair of victories as they swept past the University of Idaho and Boise State University Saturday in the Washington team championships this weekend.

The Ducks beat Idaho, 8-1, and Boise State, 6-3, after losing to Pacific Lutheran University, 6-3. Oregon's season record for collegiate matches now stands at 12-9.

Freshman Lee Galway went undefeated in his three singles matches on the weekend, raising his season record to 15-6.

Coach Buzz Summers felt the team played very well against Boise State.

"It was a good showing on our part since we lost 8-1 the first time we played them," he said.

Sophomores Sean Campbell and Chris Brillhante played exceptionally well, especially against Boise State, according to Summers. Both players won three-set matches against BSU.

Idaho was the weak team in the tournament and the Ducks had no trouble swamping them.

The Ducks face Portland State University here today at 3 p.m. and then are off to Salem on Tuesday to play Willamette University. Summers is picking Oregon to win both matches.

"We are trying to aim for 20 wins this season, and are at 19 now so maybe we can get over the hump this week," Summers said.
