Opposition politicians in Haiti call for ruling council to resign

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Opposition politicians said Sunday that the deaths of six people during a demonstration proved the ruling civilian-military council could not maintain order and demanded its members resign.

Former National Assemblyman Rockefeller Guerre called for a general strike on Monday.

"No school! No work! — the council should resign," Guerre said Saturday in a radio interview.

Opposition leaders Gregoire Eugene, Hubert Deronceray and former Justice Minister Gerard Gourgue, who heads the Haitian Human Rights League, also demanded the council resign but did not join Guerre's call for a strike.

The three council members remained silent about the demands for their resignations and about the demonstration Saturday in which police fired on a crowd of about 10,000 people, some of whom tried to storm the capital's main prison.

Three people died from police gunfire and three were electrocuted when electric wires were knocked down onto a rain-drenched street, witnesses said. Hospital officials reported at least 21 people were injured.

The Associated Press tried unsuccessfully to contact Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, the council president.

Port-au-Prince, a city with a population of 1 million, was calm Sunday, with stores and street markets open.

The opposition leaders made their demands that the council resign in radio interviews.

Eugene, head of the Social Christian Party, said if the government were strong it could have stopped the demonstration before it began.

Hubert Deronceray, a presidential candidate for the elections the council has promised to hold, said "the council has lost the faith of the people."

And Gourgue said that "a different political formula" is needed. He was a member of the original council that took over after President-for-life Jean-Claude Duvalier fled Haiti on Feb. 7 and went to France during violent anti-government demonstrations.

Saturday's march was called to mark the anniversary of the government crackdown on April 26, 1963. That was when gunmen shot to death two bodyguards and the chauffeur who had just dropped off at school Jean-Claude Duvalier, then 11, and his 14-year-old sister — the children of President Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier.

Neither Jean-Claude nor his sister Simone were injured. Jean-Claude took power in 1971 following the death of his father.

Organizers of Saturday's march included opposition leader Francois-Benoit, whose mother, father and infant son were killed by soldiers in the 1963 repression, and Robert Duval, head of the Association of Former Political Detainees.

British tourist killed in Israel, and police suspect terrorists

JERUSALEM (AP) — A 28-year-old British tourist was shot dead Sunday outside a Christian holy site in Jerusalem's Arab sector, and police said the attack may have been the act of terrorists.

Jerusalem police spokesman Rafi Levy told reporters the man was shot once in the back of the head with a small caliber pistol.

It was the third shooting of a tourist in six weeks in east Jerusalem and raised concern that attackers could be aiming their guns at travelers to frighten off visitors to Israel. The two earlier victims survived.

Police sources, who insisted on anonymity, said they were investigating whether the attack was meant as retaliation for Britain's allowing U.S. planes to take off from British soil two weeks ago to bomb Libya.

The victim carried papers indicating he was a British citizen, police said, declining to give his identity immediately. Israel radio identified him as Paul Appleby of Bristol, England.

He was shot in an isolated alleyway just outside the gate of the Garden Tomb shrine, which is administered by a British-based foundation.

Protestants believe the hilltop is where Jesus was crucified and buried. Catholics, Greek Orthodox and most other Christian groups believe the Church of the Holy Sepulchre inside the Old City is the site of the crucifixion and burial.

The Garden Tomb shrine borders on the Old City, which was crowded Sunday with those observing the eight-day Jewish Passover commemorating the biblical Israelites' escape from Egyptian bondage.

The Rev. William White of Dorset, England, a chaplain at the site, said a woman heard a shot ring out around 12:50 p.m. and he ran to call the police.

Military sources said last week they were trying to uncover four terror gangs operating out of Jerusalem's Old City and the occupied West Bank.

The sources said the gangs were responsible for recent attacks in and around Jerusalem, including the March 2 assassination of the Israeli-appointed mayor of Nablus, Zafer al-Masri.

As news of the shooting broke, Tourism Minister Avraham Sharir noted that recent attacks have reduced tourism to Israel by 40 percent since January, said ministry spokeswoman Orly Yegoro.

The loss has cost the troubled Israeli economy $30 million in lost revenues, Sharir said, urging American Jewish leaders "not to surrender to terrorism and to come visit Israel now."

HABITS OF THE HEART

Individualism and Commitment in American Life

by Robert N. Bellah

What are the habits of the heart that move us, the beliefs and practices that shape our character and give form to our social order?

Based on a massive five-year study of various American communities, this bestselling work explores the traditions Americans use to make sense of themselves and their society and presents one of today's major moral dilemmas: the conflict between our fierce individualism and our urgent need for community and commitment.

"Habits of the Heart is rare among works of scholarly origin, an outspoken and even emotional plea for attention to an argument, and a danger."
— Los Angeles Times
