

The thrill of victory, the agony of defeat

About 70 cyclists turned out Sunday, despite cool temperatures and intermittent showers, to compete in a criterium bike race sponsored and organized by the University cycling team.

While police maintained barricades closing the course to traffic, riders in three classes raced up to 50 laps around the sixth-tenths of a mile circuit bounded by 15th Avenue, University Street, 13th Avenue and Agate Street.

Clockwise from left: Dan Watrud, Kelly Weiber and Doug Clark battle for first place in the 30-mile senior II/III class race.

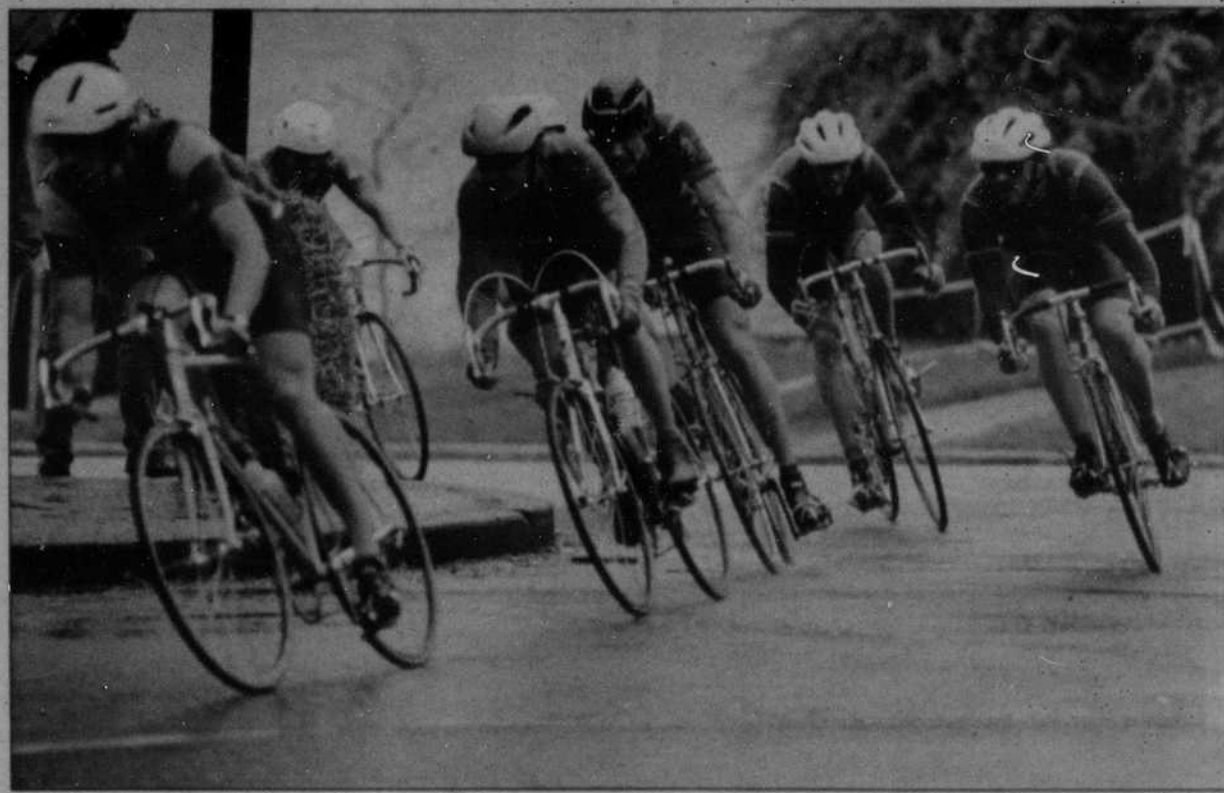

Clark, a University cycling team member, lapped the field and went on to take first place.

Hard turns on wet corners made this race difficult, but fortunately there were no serious accidents.

Groups are tight on the straightaway as participants try to follow close behind someone who can break the wind for them.

Mike Ritzow fights to take the inside in an effort to put other cyclists behind him on his way to the finish line.
