

Dial, 2 others added to Pre Classic field

Three more top athletes have been added to an already impressive field set to compete in the June 7 Prefontaine Classic at Hayward Field, meet director Tom Jordan announced Tuesday.

Pole vaulter Joe Dial, who has raised the American record three times already in 1986, was added to the pole vault field. Dial has been on a tear during the outdoor season, going 19-2 3/4, 19-3 1/2 and 19-4 1/4 in his last three outings. Only two men in history have ever jumped higher.

Michael Conley, the number two ranked long jumper in the world, was also added to the field in the long jump, an event that already includes Olympic gold medalist and number one ranked Carl Lewis.

Conley was 1985's NCAA and The Athletic Congress champion, and he has a wind-aided best of 28-0, with six other jumps over 27 feet last year.

Gus Envela, the Oregon sprints standout, will be entering the 100-meter dash, joining Kirk Baptiste, who was ranked number four in the world last year by Track & Field News. Envela, a senior in high school this year, is the state high school recordholder in the 100, 200 and 400.

These three top athletes will join other top track and field athletes such as Michael Franks, Henry Marsh and Willie Banks for the annual Pre Classic, as well as Doug Padilla, Judi Brown-King, Tom Byers, Al Joyner and Charlie Simpkins.

Just when the lead seemed insurmountable, a fight broke out. A Vancouver player was sentenced to five minutes in the penalty box.

As a fan, if your team is losing badly, you can vent frustration by watching a player rough up an opponent. But when you're ahead by three goals, it's pretty foolish to risk a penalty.

The Canucks were left shorthanded, and the Nordiques were in the power-play. With one less player on the ice to chase the puck, Quebec scored twice and suddenly the game didn't look quite as secure.

As time ran down, Quebec started taking more shots. One errant shot sailed high and skipped off the glass toward us.

Fred reached out with his boards-for-hands and managed to bounce the puck into the row in front of us. I was about to reach for it when the older lady sitting next to us shot forward like a bolt of lightning. I'd never seen an old person move quite so fast, but hey, in Canada, hockey is king.

The Canucks held on to the victory, but then they were swept in three games by Edmonton in the playoffs. Currently, the playoffs are raging on. While all the folks back East are enjoying the excitement, I'm relegated to reading what the Register-Guard gives me; usually, two lines of fine print on Sundays.

But for one night in March, this native Oregonian lived the life of a Canadian-style hockey fan... and loved every minute of it.

first two years, as a freshman and a sophomore, than he did during his junior and senior campaigns.

There was a time when the scouts were absolutely goggle-eyed over him. "A second-round pick for sure," said one expert during Judge's junior year.

Regardless, Judge played in this year's Hula Bowl, so the pros are obviously still taking a serious look at him.

His early college stint as kick returner his sophomore year proved his versatility as an athlete. If given the opportunity, Judge can establish himself as a full-time safety in the NFL.

None of the four players would have been a gamble to draft. The picks are in and signed, sealed and delivered by Rich Brooks.

Now, the former Ducks can only hope that someday they will be able to join the likes of Dan Fouts, Mike Walter, Bobby Moore (now NBC sportscaster Ahmad Rashad), Wendell Cason, Steve Brown and George Martin as Oregon football alums who have enjoyed success on the NFL level.

For 25 Years, we've been exporting America's most valuable resource.

The men and women of the Peace Corps. Dedicated volunteers who help people in developing countries live better lives.

It's tough. And it takes more than just concern. It takes motivation. Commitment.

But for 25 years, being a Peace Corps volunteer has been a chance to stop dreaming about a better world and start doing something about it.
